Nixon Appointees

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced Tuesday four appointments that fill all current vacancies on a special White House staff that lobbies before Congress in behalf of administration legislation.

To head a three-man group that conducts White House liaison with House members, Nixon promoted Max L. Friedersdorf to be a deputy assistant to the President.

Since April 1, 1971, Friedersdorf had been a member of the House liaison. A former newspaperman, he at various times was employed by the Franklin (Ind.) Evening Star, Louisville Times, Indianapolis News and Chicago Daily News.

To serve under Friedersdorf, Nixon appointed Mississippi

Democrat Wilbur Eugene Ainsworth Jr., and James Sparling, a Republican.

Ainsworth had been administrative assistant to Rep. G. V. Montgomery, D-Miss., since 1967. Sparling, a one-time reporter for the Saginaw (Mich.) News, had been administrative assistant to Rep. James Harvey, R-Mich., since 1961.

Ainsworth and Sparling will be special assistants to the President.

As special assistant to serve on the Senate liaison staff, Nixon named Frederick L. Webber, a former special assistant to the secretary of labor in the Nixon administration who had resigned in January to become a vice president of the American Paper Institute, New York City.

Congress—Fuel

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill requiring the Nixon administration to draw up a nationwide gasoline and oil distribution plan was passed by the Senate, 85 to 10, Tuesday and sent to the House.

Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, said the bill will not be enough and "sooner or later we're going to have to establish priorities" on fuel.

The legislation would replace President Nixon's voluntary approach to fuel distribution.

Its chief intent is to see that no section of the country suffers more than another and also that the independent refiners and gas station owners get the same crack at petroleum products as the major companies.

"It rations the shortages," said Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., a backer of the measure.

Jackson has said that the shortages cropping up around the nation seem to be a contrivance of the major oil companies.

The bill contains several provisions for gathering more information from the oil companies on their reserves and distribution.

The Senate attached a non-binding resolution to it Monday urging the states to lower their maximum speed limits to 55 miles an hour or by 10 m.p.h. whichever is greater, to conserve fuel.

In floor debate, Sen. Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., said the President's voluntary approach to fuel distribution is working.

POW Suicide

QUINCY, Mass. (AP) — The brother of Air Force Capt. Edward A. Brudno said Tuesday that the suicide death of the former prisoner of war was "as much a war casualty as any of the others."

"We can never understand what he went through out there, but it changed him — he brought the torment back with him," said Robert Brudno, acting as spokesman for the family of the first POW returned from North Vietnam to take his own life.

In an interview in the captain's home town with the Quincy Patriot-Ledger, Robert bitterly criticized North Vietnam as "a country that would so intentionally commit such torture and torment to people."

There were reports elsewhere that Edward, who died on the eve of his 33rd birthday, was despondent because his hopes of becoming an astronaut had been thwarted by his 7½ years of imprisonment after his jet fighter was downed over North Vietnam.

Also, Robert said the captain was deeply disturbed by anti-war protests in this country.

But the brother added: "There was no specific thing that caused his depression, but because of his experiences he lost all flexibility. To him, disappointment and misfortune were disaster."

"All the normal problems of repatriation and rehabilitation to him were crises, and he magnified the problems in his mind. Perhaps this death was the only way he could get peace."

Chagall—Exhibit

MOSCOW (AP) — Chagall rediscovered Chagall on Tuesday and he wept.

The encounter took place on the ground floor of the Tretyakov Museum in Moscow between Marc Chagall, 85, and three canvases he left in Russia 53 years ago and hadn't seen since.

In his honor, museum officials removed them from storage and hung them along with 76 contemporary lithographs and two gouaches that the artist had donated to the museum.

Looking frail and vulnerable beneath a sparse crown of snow-white hair, Chagall stood before a 1918 painting called "The Wedding." He touched its surface with a tentative hand.

To a spectator who asked him if he remembered these paintings well, he turned with tears in his eyes and replied softly: "More than you can imagine."

Touring the exhibit of lithographs, Chagall stopped momentarily and wedged a small bouquet of lilies-of-the-valley behind a picture.

He was escorted by Yekaterina Furtseva, the minister of culture who helps guard the Soviet regime against deviations from Socialist realism, art in the service of the party and state.

Reisner, Harmony Testify Introduce Gemstone File

WASHINGTON (AP) — An aide in the Nixon re-election campaign testified Tuesday that two weeks before the Watergate break-in he put papers from the "Gemstone" political espionage file into an envelope prepared for a meeting with John N. Mitchell.

Robert A. Reisner said he was handed an envelope and stationery by his boss, Jeb Stuart Magruder, who was deputy to Mitchell, the campaign chairman and former attorney general.

Reisner told the Senate Watergate committee he was handed the documents a week or two before June 17, 1972, the date of the break-in.

The next witness scheduled, when the hearings resume at 10 a.m. Wednesday, is Hugh W. Sloan Jr., the Nixon campaign treasurer who quit after disclosure that $114,000 of campaign contributions wound up in the bank account of one of the Watergate burglars.

The committee's schedule of witnesses was thrown into confusion by legal questions centering on whether Maurice H. Stans, Magruder and ousted presidential counsel John Dean will testify. Former Committee Secretary Stans is under indictment and the other two men are demanding immunity for their testimony—immunity that the Justice Department is delaying.

But in another area—logs detailing conversations between President Nixon and Dean—the committee may be luckier. Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, reversing his stand, said a review is being made whether the logs will be made available on some basis other than subpoena.

Reisner told the senators that a copy of each paper that went through him to Mitchell was copied and the duplicate went to H.R. Haldeman, Nixon's chief of staff.

"We were working for the President who was the candidate," he said, "so we were providing the opportunity for him to see any documents relating to the campaign."

Mitchell's name came up in a deposition, taken last month, from former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman.

In the deposition, made public Tuesday, Ehrlichman said Magruder told him recently that Mitchell approved the Watergate wiretapping at a meeting with him and Mitchell aide Frederick C. LaRue in late March 1972.

The materials in "Gemstone"—a code word for political espionage reports—were brought up for the first time in the Senate hearings Tuesday, first by Sally J. Harmony, secretary to convicted Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy.

Reisner said he had some general awareness of what was included in the materials.

Mrs. Harmony had given the committee a stenographer's view of typing memoranda—some on the Gemstone stationery—from sources known to her only as "Ruby One," "Ruby Two," and "Crystal."

She said she also typed wiretap transcripts, but "I was not aware they were wiretap conversations at the time I was typing them."

Skylab Crew Readies For Go At Spacewalk

SPACE CENTER Houston (AP) — Skylab's astronauts prepared Tuesday for a bold and unprecedented space walk attempt to salvage a broken solar panel and end a critical power shortage aboard their orbiting laboratory.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr., Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin and Paul J. Weitz studied a complex proposal for the repair job and scheduled a review session with experts on the ground who drew up the plans. The space walk is tentatively set for noon EDT Thursday.

Space agency officials revealed Tuesday that Conrad had experienced irregular heart beats earlier in the mission, but said that, nonetheless the crew was "in excellent condition."

If the jammed solar panel can be freed it could almost double the electrical power aboard the 118-foot-long space station. A power shortage has curtailed experiments on Skylab 1 and could make it impossible to fly the full 56-day mission of Skylab 2 and 3.

Officials said that Conrad and Kerwin will do the actual space walk and Conrad, the mission commander, will take on the most hazardous role — crawling 25 feet down the side of the tube-shaped spaceship.

Weitz will remain inside the space station to relay radio instructions to his crewmates.

A plan for the space walk was prepared by Skylab 1 backup commander Russell Schweickart and sent up to Conrad on a radio teleprinter.

During their scheduled space walk, Conrad and Kerwin will be trying to fix a wing-shaped aluminum beam which contains three folded panels of solar cells. The wing is 30 feet long, hinged against the side of the space station and weighs one ton.

Governors Blame Watergate For Paralysis Of Government

STATELINE, Nev. (AP) — Several governors on Tuesday blamed the Watergate scandal for what they called a paralysis of government, blocking solutions to pressing problems ranging from planting crops to keeping schools open.

"A creeping paralysis is overtaking Washington as the result of Watergate, blocking meaningful action on a variety of critical problems," Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker, a Democrat, told a news conference at the National Governors Conference.

The comment came as the governors awaited the arrival of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, whose visit was announced suddenly on Monday.

Walker's complaint was echoed by a number of other governors as they discussed state problems in a series of panels which struck repeatedly at lack of direction and help from Washington, particularly on the national energy crisis.

"It is increasingly evident we do not have, and will not have the supplies of fuel we need," Walker said. "This shortage has ominous overtones in terms of our world relationships, grave dangers for the development of our economy."

"We are groping our way with Band-Aid solutions, but disruption of the lives of millions of people is around the corner," Walker said. "This includes soaring fuel prices, brown-outs, fuel rationing and the like."

Walker said decisions on vital national problems are being held up by lack of leadership from the White House "and I think Watergate is a major part of the trouble."

Govs. Jimmy Carter of Georgia and David Hall of Oklahoma, both Democrats, said they have sought in recent months to meet with top officials in Washington about the energy crisis but were denied audiences with the people they sought.

The governors also complained there is no central authority responsible for dealing with the energy crisis.

"This is a slapstick approach to how to deal with a crisis which touches so many of us in a personal way," Carter said. "Responsibility in this area is divided among at least 60 different agencies."

President Holds Meeting With Economic Advisers

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon met with his economic advisers on Tuesday for the second time in a week as other top economic officials expressed optimism about the dollar's future.

News of the Nixon meeting buoyed investors, stock analysts said, as the stock market moved upward in moderate trading.

On Capitol Hill earlier in the day, the deputy undersecretary of the treasury, Jack F. Bennett, told senators that it is a considerable overstatement to say there is an international monetary crisis. He said he expects the dollar to strengthen in the coming months.

In reply to Bennett's later comments on anticipated surpluses in next year's federal budget, Senate Finance Subcommittee Chairman Harry F. Byrd Jr., Ind.-Va., said he was "shocked at the lack of concern in the Treasury Department" over federal deficits.

The economy also was the concern of the Senate Republican Conference Tuesday. Conference chairman John Tower of Texas reported after a meeting that he senses majority sentiment for tougher wage-and-price controls, beyond the flexible restraints of the Nixon administration's Phase 3 economic program.

At the White House after a morning GOP leadership meeting with Nixon, Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told reporters he was in favor of a "return to selective controls" on wages and prices. He said he did not know what the President thought about that.

But, said Scott, "something needs to be done," and, "I'm assured something is under very active consideration."

In Scotland, Arthur F. Burns, Chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, told a world economic meeting that the United States will enjoy a foreign-trade profit in the next two years and the U.S. dollar will strengthen over the long term.

Release Ehrlichman Deposition

Liddy Threatened Magruder

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former presidential adviser says he was told that Watergate conspirator G. Gordon Liddy once threatened to kill the deputy director of President Nixon's re-election committee.

John D. Ehrlichman, in a deposition taken last month and released Tuesday, said Jeb S. Magruder, the committee official, told him of the death threat last April 14.

Ehrlichman's testimony also included an allegation by Magruder that John N. Mitchell approved the wiretapping of the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office building.

Ehrlichman said Mitchell refused to discuss the matter with him and said he did not bring it up with a third man, Frederick C. LaRue, who was said to have been present when Mitchell approved the plan.

According to Ehrlichman's testimony, the threat was made around mid-March 1972, when Liddy was allegedly trying to get approval for a grandiose scheme for intelligence gathering and wiretapping.

At some point, Magruder put his hand on Liddy's shoulder or touched him in some way "and Liddy reacted very violently"

Ehrlichman said. There were no blows, Ehrlichman said. "He (Liddy) just threatened to kill him."

Ehrlichman said he did not know what precipitated the outburst and he did not state the exact words used.

At another point Ehrlichman said Magruder told him that the alleged death threat made him fearful because Liddy "had been known to carry a gun, that he considered him to be a rather unstable character..."

Ehrlichman's testimony included an allegation by Magruder that John N. Mitchell approved the wiretapping of the Democratic National Committee headquarters in the Watergate office building. Ehrlichman said Mitchell refused to discuss the matter with him and said he did not bring it up with a third man, Frederick C. LaRue, who was said to have been present when Mitchell approved the plan.

Mitchell was the director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President; Magruder was deputy director and LaRue was a Mitchell aide.

Ehrlichman, who was Nixon's chief adviser on domestic affairs, said he talked to Magruder in connection with instructions from Nixon last March 30 that he conduct an investigation of the Watergate affair.

According to Ehrlichman, Nixon said it was evident that the man who had been responsible for the previous White House investigation, John W. Dean III, was involved in the scandal "up to his eyebrows." Dean, the White House counsel, was fired April 30, and Ehrlichman resigned his post the same day.

Meanwhile Tuesday, a White House spokesman said there will be a review of whether

Editorial Comment

One Long Presidential Term

The many-faceted political scandal of which America is now trying to purge itself arises from one central source. This is the unprincipled use of extreme measures, some questionable and others plainly in violation of the law, to assure the re-election of a president.

We share Sen. Mike Mansfield's view that these circumstances make this a peculiarly appropriate time to consider means of divorcing "the office of the presidency from the arena of the political campaign." As the Senate majority leader argues, "a single term of six years—or five or seven—would assist such an end." This appears more evident than ever in the lurid light of Watergate.

Though Mansfield has several times before introduced a proposal to amend the Constitution to this effect, the idea is by no means original with him. This notion was discussed as early as the Constitutional Convention of 1787, and has been broached on occasion over the years since then.

Opponents of the proposal say that with only one six-year term available a president would be a "lame duck" the moment he took office. This argument holds little water, particularly since under present circumstances the president is just as much a lame duck when elected for a second term.

Some also argue that by choosing our presidents for a single longer term we would be giving up a valuable restraint on abuse of power. It is true that at present a chief executive can be voted out after four years if his conduct of the office is unsatisfactory. This advantage would in our judgment be outweighed by the greater advantages of a longer term permitting the president to perform his duties without having to worry about political pressures.

These pressures are manifold. The White House incumbent must during his first term devote considerable time and energy to thinking about re-election. At some point along the way he must begin to involve himself more or less actively in plans to keep the office for another four years. In election year his involvement in this enterprise is likely to become very heavy, especially if a strong challenge is mounted against him.

There is another point. Mansfield puts it thus: "But a president facing re-election faces as well a host of demands—from attending the needs of political officeholders, office seekers, financial backers and all the rest, to riding herd on the day-to-day developments within the pedestrian partisan arena."

The need for such activity would be all but eliminated under a one-term system. The arguments for the Mansfield amendment are strongly compelling.

An Aura Of Roman Circuses

After this year's murderous fiasco, the Indianapolis 500 seems less defensible than ever. That is saying a lot. It has been evident for quite some time that fast-car technology has made the famous race too hazardous to be justifiable as a sporting event.

The race is conducted on a track which has not been fundamentally redesigned since early in the century, when the hottest cars of the day made the run at about today's highway speeds. Negotiating the turns and maintaining traction at around 200 miles an hour is just too tricky. This was evidenced by the flaming crash of two vehicles. It is a sad and bitter footnote to disaster that one man was killed when hit by a fire truck rushing to the scene of one of those accidents.

Anyone who suggests abandoning the celebrated Indy 500 as too much of a bad thing is sure to be told that this is the nature of the beast. Racing fans make rather a point of it that one must expect smashups, injuries and deaths when men hurtle four-wheeled projectiles around a track in close quarters.

That is quite true. But is it a justification for more smashups, more injuries, more deaths? The aura of the ancient Roman circuses, with their crowds pleasurably sniffing imminent disaster, hovers over the Indianapolis track.

Capital Debate: Can Nixon Be Required To Testify?

By GEORGE J. MARDER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington is indulging itself in high level debate on whether President Nixon can be required to testify before the grand jury investigating Watergate. It's the kind of debate that politicians, professors and lawyers, who consider themselves constitutional experts, love. Nothing can come of it unless some move is made to summon the President—and there is no indication that any such move is contemplated.

The debate was stirred by a report in the Washington Post that Watergate prosecutors felt the grand jury had received testimony which needed explaining, and if it were not for the fact that he were President, Nixon would be summoned to explain.

Those supporting the theory of a grand jury subpoena argue that the President is not above the law just because he is President. The Supreme Court has said that no citizen can claim immunity from testifying before a grand jury because of his position.

Appearance Would Suffice
Newsmen have special protection under the First Amendment's press freedom guarantee, but the Court ruled that in some circumstances, newsmen must testify or go to jail. In the decision, Justice Byron R. White called attention to an opinion by the first Chief Justice, John Marshall, when he was sitting as the presiding judge in the treason trial of Aaron Burr.

Marshall wrote that under "proper circumstances" a President could be summoned to testify before a grand jury. Those arguing that Nixon could be called before the Watergate grand jury say that to hold otherwise is to place the President above the law which applies to everyone else.

Some say that a President would have to be impeached before he could be held accountable like other citizens.

The supporters of the idea of presidential testimony before the grand jury ask: Why should it be necessary to go through an impeachment procedure when a single appearance by the President before a grand jury could possibly explain everything satisfactorily?

Could Be Jailed
Those who argue against presidential testimony say the Constitution says clearly impeachment must precede criminal trial, and that logic also requires this.

To clarify the situation: the power to subpoena means the power to punish when a subpoena is defied. If the President were treated like any other citizen, he could be sent to jail for contempt if he refused to testify after being summoned.

Supporters of the White House who view that it would be "constitutionally inappropriate" for Nixon to testify point out that any judge or grand jury would be given the power to deprive the United States of its President, no matter what the cause. The Constitution gives that power only to Congress, they argue.

Suppose a President is suspected of murder. Could such a trial be held while he was running the White House?

The Constitution does not allow the President to get away with murder. It provides that the penalty for conviction of impeachment of a President is removal from office, but "the party convicted shall nevertheless be liable and subject to indictment, trial, judgment and punishment, according to law."

A Look Inside Archibald Cox

By RAY CROMLEY
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Archibald Cox, the Harvard constitutional and labor law professor nominated as investigator and prosecutor in the Watergate affair, is a troubled man—intellectually torn between his deep belief in strict constructionism as favored by the Nixon appointees to the U.S. Supreme Court and his devotion to the action principles of President John Kennedy, whom he served with fervor.

If this past is a precedent, Cox will attempt above all to relate this Watergate affair to its niche in the pages of constitutional law, its place in history, and to basic legal principles in the tradition of Justice Felix Frankfurter. He will steer clear of politics.

For one thing is clear. Cox believes in the sacredness of law and its inviolability. He has been known variously as the solicitor general who couldn't see beyond the law and the best solicitor in history, an office which included William Howard Taft, Charles Evans Hughes, Francis Biddle, Robert Jackson and Stanley Reed.

His belief in the sacredness of law forces Cox to bend over backward to be fair to his opponents. On one occasion he argued both sides of a case simultaneously before the Supreme Court and defeated the side he personally favored. Yet paradoxically, when he does become convinced completely on a point of law, he finds it difficult to understand how anyone could be unconvinced by his conclusions.

Cox firmly believes the end does not justify the means. On occasion he refused to participate in some major government integration cases in whose justice he passionately believed because he felt the arguments were not legally sound. He is convinced it is not the job of the courts to legislate morality. And, as Victor Navasky has reported, balks at doing anything that will mislead a court into doing something that might look right now, but wrong a hundred years hence.

Cox is not a man other lawyers describe mildly. At one time or another associates have used these terms to describe this complicated professor—principled, integrity beyond question, vain, proud, easily offended, pompous, stuffy, self-admiring, pedantic, shy, morning-coat formal somewhat austere, decent, tough, dedicated, rigorous, platoon, thorough, unrealistic, a painful, tortured but clear and brilliant thinker precise with a passion for the rigid application of the law, a narrow technician devoted to abstract concepts, a bear for precedents, a man with a heavy conscience and a severe sense of propriety, cautious, not wanting to go too far in one step, not a man to dash out on a limb and then have it cut off behind him, deeply concerned about history, judicially neutral.

Cox most certainly will resign posthaste if the administration or Congress undercuts him. A friend of 26 years standing says he is not a man you can push, noting that Cox resigned as chairman of the Wage Stabilization Board when President Truman undercut him—approving a pay increase beyond that recommended by officials working on the problem.

Victor Navasky, who has written at length and competently on Cox in his book Kennedy Justice, seems to intimate that the Kennedy brothers John and Robert knew how, at times, to get Cox to argue himself into positions they wanted, though not often. No one else this reporter knows has suggested anyone could lead Cox any time, any place.

One aside should be noted. When he was solicitor general in the Kennedy administration, the rumor was that Cox preferred to staff his office with Harvard men, preferably those who had studied with Cox himself, or clerked for someone like Justice Frankfurter. Harvard men have already begun to call in to volunteer for work on his Watergate staff.

Ann Landers:

Tired Of Hearing Kids Blaming Parents for Everything

Dear Ann Landers: Here's an open letter to all you kids who are mad at your parents because they didn't give you enough love when you were growing up. (Some of you "kids" are 30 years old.) Your psychiatrist told you (for $40 an hour) that your parents are to blame for messing you up—that they were too busy making money or being community big shots. A hired woman fed and dressed you. You weren't rocked enough, or breast-fed. Or your parents had a bad marriage. They yelled at each other and you got bad vibes.

How do you account for all the kids who grew up on the street, never knew a decent meal, no silverware on the table, father a drunk, mother a barfly, yet they made it just fine—without psychiatric help. Many of these so-called "neglected" kids are leaders in business, politics, education, art, music—wherever you look.

I am so fed up hearing kids blame their parents for everything that I could throw up. I am waiting for the day when they have kids of their own. Let's see how well THEY turn out. — Your Good-For-Nothing Father

Dear Father: You didn't ask for any advice, but I have an idea you should have grabbed a few of those $40 sessions for yourself. You sound deeply disappointed in your children and worse yet, seething with anger. Obviously you've been hurt and rejected and it shows. Maybe it's not too late for you to get some self-understanding. I recommend it.

Dear Ann Landers: I would like to reply to the person who sent that Credo For Salespeople.

It made every clerk in this store hopping mad. After all, we aren't ALL ignorant, unresponsive, indifferent and morose. Granted, one out of ten salespeople just might fit that description, but I can tell you from experience that the chances for getting a pain-in-the-anke customer are better than 50-50.

Here is my list of salesmen's grievances. I'll bet no store manager will have this credo framed and hung, but I'll feel better for having written it.

1. Please don't try to get a clerk's attention by snapping your fingers, whistling, or pulling at his or her sleeve.

2. Please don't let your children run loose in the store, screaming like banshees, knocking over stacks of cans, breaking and soiling merchandise. If you can't discipline them, leave them at home.

3. Merchandise is sealed for YOUR protection. Please don't rip it open. Would you buy a jar with a broken seal? Well, neither would anyone else.

4. At present I work at a supermarket checkout counter. I say "thank you" to every customer. One person out of twenty responds.

I could go on indefinitely, but these are for openers. Let's hear it for the Sales Clerks of America. Every day we have to put up with screaming kids, shoplifters, non-English-speaking customers, and sourpusses like that clown who wrote to you. No hint as to where this letter came from, please, Ann. I need my job. Sign me—Other Side of the Counter.

Dear Side: Never let it be said that I didn't give both sides of the counter a fair hearing. You've made some valid points and I thank you for writing.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Crime in the U.S., as measured by the crime index of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, rose only one per cent during the first 6 months of 1972, compared with the corresponding period of 1971 when it was up 7 per cent. This is the lowest percentage increase for a 6-month period since 1960 when the FBI first began issuing quarterly releases on crime, The World Almanac notes.

'Environment Week' Begins In Japan On Hopeful Note

TOKYO (AP) — Excursion boats with twinkling lights are returning to the River Sumida here. The stench is gone, and pedestrians and cyclists no longer need hold their noses while crossing its bridges.

What's more, Tokyo soon may have a law guaranteeing the "right to sunshine."

On these hopeful notes, Japan, one of the world's most crowded and polluted countries, began its Environment Week.

The observance started with No Car Tuesday, throughout the country. Everyone from government ministers on down was asked to leave their automobiles home and ride public transit or walk to work. Detectors were set up to measure the hoped-for drop in air pollution.

The change in the Sumida River is something of a resurrection.

Nine years ago, the river was pronounced dead after its water turned to black sludge. Since then, the Sumida and other rivers have been partially cleaned through such measures as policing of industrial wastes, increasing the flow of water and erection of treatment plants for 70 per cent of the sewerage. This compares with only five per cent in 1960.

The Tokyo city government is expected to enact the "right to sunshine" law in response to a petition with the names of 211,408 of the capital's 11 million population. It would require anyone constructing a building higher than 24½ feet to obtain the consent of three-fourths of the neighborhood's residents.

Holkenbrink Fires Finance Officer Tuesday

Newly-appointed Urban Renewal Director Byron Holkenbrink, in his first official act upon taking over Tuesday morning, dismissed Finance and Budget Officer Mary Morris who had been employed by the department since 1971.

Holkenbrink had three people working for his department but as of noon the office secretary and re-location officer were still employed.

After Monday night's council meeting, Holkenbrink commented that he didn't know what would take place Tuesday morning. Mrs. Morris said she heard rumors that her services would be terminated and when she asked Mr. Holkenbrink, the rumors were confirmed. Holkenbrink said her services would be terminated immediately.

A new finance officer has been hired and will start within two weeks. Director Holkenbrink said he would rather not announce the name until she has notified her present employer.

Maude Ransom Of Brown Dies: Rites Wednesday

MT. STERLING—Mrs. Maude A. Ransom of Mt. Sterling died Monday at the Elmwood Manor in Beardstown. She was 88 years of age, was educated in Brown county and had been a member of the Methodist church.

Born in Adams Sept. 21, 1884, she was the daughter of William and Lunetta McMeans Stahan. She married Claude Ransom in Brown county in 1902 and he died in 1948.

Three sons survive: L. C. Ransom, Rushville; E. G. Ransom of Mt. Sterling and A. J. Ransom, Urbana. There are 3 grandchildren and six great grandchildren.

Two brothers and four sisters preceded in death.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at Hufnagel Funeral Home with interment to be in Ripley cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home at any time.

Plastic Bottle Use NEW YORK (UPI) — American consumers will use a record 7 billion plastic bottles this year. The Society of the Plastics Industry (SPI) forecasts.

Most of plastic bottle packaging is of household chemicals such as bleaches, detergents, cleansers, window cleaners and soaps. Toiletries, cosmetics, health care products and food products also are being packaged in plastic bottles in record numbers, SPI says.

In individual cases, the government already has banned construction of structures that would cut off sunshine or light to neighboring buildings.

Despite this news, the city and the nation are still faced with massive problems of pollution of the air, the sea and the earth.

How to cope with some of them will be the theme of lectures during the week by the director-general of the Environment Agency, Vice Premier Takeo Miki, and Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Muskie sponsored major clean air legislation in the U.S. Senate.

Kidnapers Free Argentine Army Official

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP) — Jacobo Nasif, a commander of the army-run gendarmerie, was released unharmed early Tuesday by the left-wing guerrillas who kidnaped him April 26, police reported.

The People's Revolutionary Army, the Trotskyite group that claimed credit for Nasif's kidnaping, still holds retired Adm. Francisco Aleman, abducted April 1.

Unconfirmed reports said that Aleman also could be released in the next few hours, but there was no formal announcement by the guerrillas. A previous statement from the guerrillas said Aleman was being prosecuted by a "people's court" for a number of "illegal" acts performed under the past military regime.

It was first believed that the guerrillas had seized Aleman and Nasif to ensure the release of several hundred guerrillas arrested by the military government. All political prisoners were freed hours after Peronist President Hector J. Campora was sworn in May 25.

ANNEX AREA TO BEARDSTOWN FOR HOUSING UNITS

BEARDSTOWN — The city of Beardstown has acted to annex several acres of ground at the end of Grand Avenue near the intersections of routes 125, 67 and 100 where fifty housing units may be located.

The Cass County Housing Authority's contractor Freechon, Inc., requested the annexation to pave the way for fire and police protection, and sewer and water system provisions.

The city council also acted to transfer land from residential to commercial zone so David E. Moran can operate a car wash at 1401 Wall street. A request by William Applegate to transfer land at 815 Wall from residential to commercial was tabled, due to the fact the council has not been informed as to Mr. Applegate's intention on the kind of business to be operated at the address.

SCOTT RITES HELD FOR MR. HUTCHINGS

WINCHESTER — Funeral services for Troy Hutchings were held Sunday at the Concord Funeral Home with the Rev. David Ford officiating, assisted by the Rev. Bill Smith. Mrs. Albert Herring, organist, accompanied Mrs. John Fryman and Mrs. Kenneth Garrett in selections of "How Great Thou Art," and "God Will Take Care of You."

Pallbearers were Donald Howard, Norman Howard, Ronald Howard, Dean Howard, Larry Howard and Earl Howard. Burial was in Glasgow cemetery.

Masonic services were held Saturday at the funeral home by the White Hall Masonic Lodge with Charles Rhodes, Brown Leonard and Ernest Roodhouse in charge.

Births

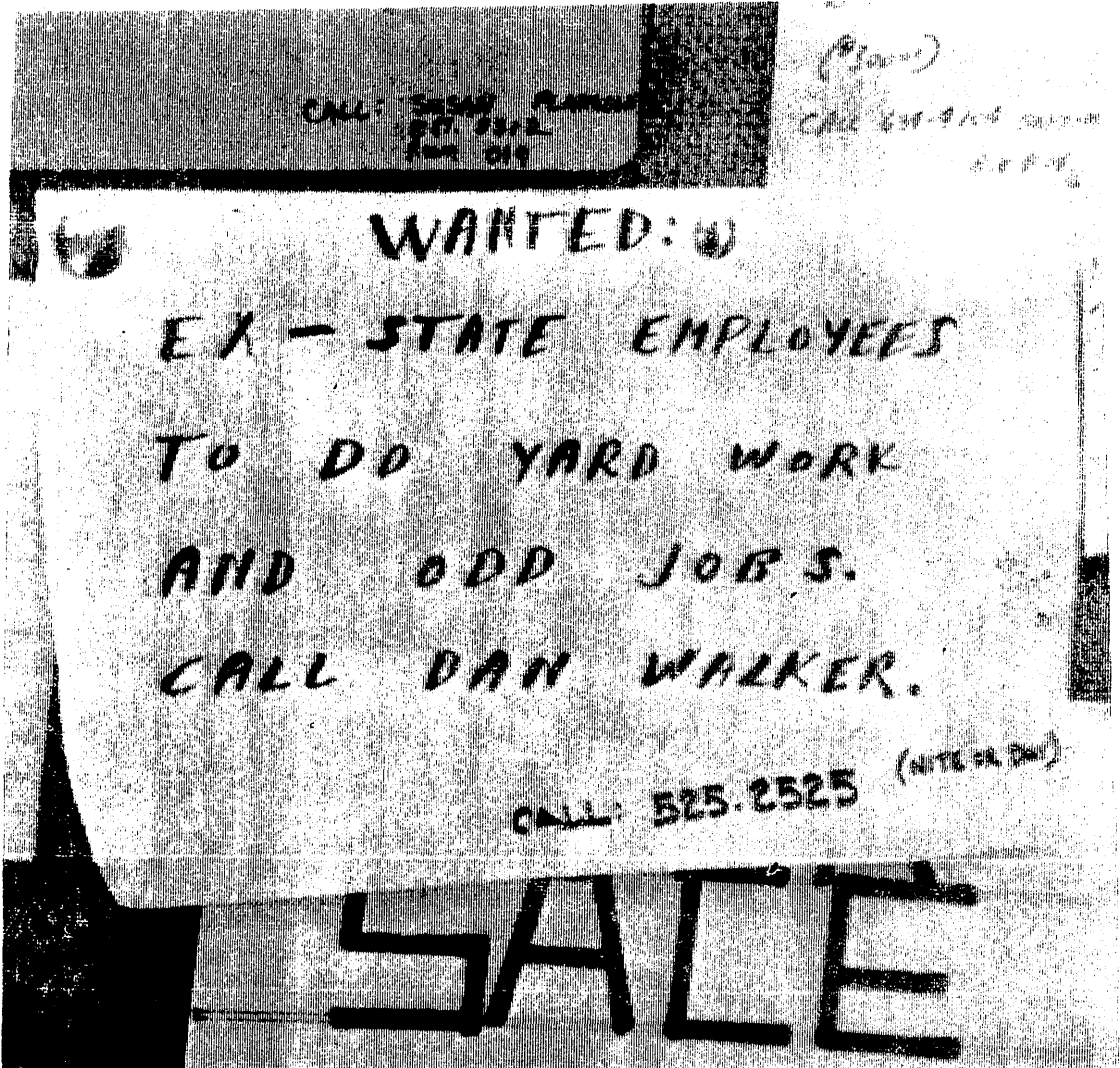

Word has been received here of the June 4th birth at Hillsboro hospital of a son, Daniel Eugene, to Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Ingram of Taylor Springs, Ill. This is the couple's first child. The mother is the former Evelyn Detrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Eugene Detrick of Chapin. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ingram of Mt. Sterling. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Hocking of Franklin became parents of a daughter at 5:18 a.m. Tuesday at Passavant hospital.

WINNINGHAM REUNION

The Winningham family reunion will be held Sunday, June 10 at Nichols Park.

HUMOROUS POSTER — Apparently referring to the several hundred employees for the Illinois Department of Transportation whose jobs are scheduled to be terminated, this humorous poster appears among the other items on the DOT office bulletin board. (UPI Photo)

Will Be Bride On Sunday

Ellen Violet Baptist

A former Jacksonville girl, Ellen Violet Baptist, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Baptist, Jacksonville route one, will become the bride Sunday, June 10th, of Dr. David Ross Giem, formerly of Missouri, in a ceremony at the Village Seventh Day Adventist church in Berrien Springs, Michigan. She is a graduate of Andrews University, Berrien Springs, and has a degree in nursing education. He graduated from Walla Walla College, Walla Walla, Washington, and from Loma Linda University, Loma Linda, California. He is a first year resident surgeon at White Memorial Hospital in Los Angeles, California, where Miss Baptist is also employed. The couple will make their home in Los Angeles.

French Papers Speculate About Pompidou Health

PARIS (AP) — President Georges Pompidou has decided to cancel his appearances at all ceremonial events in the next few weeks, the Elysee Palace announced yesterday.

French newspapers and magazines have speculated recently that Pompidou may be more seriously ill than indicated by official announcements that he is tired from recurrent colds and the flu.

Several newspapers have asked for an official statement to set the rumors at rest.

The announcement from the palace said: "The president, because of his obligations, has not had the possibility to take the rest made necessary by the recurrent grippes which he has suffered this winter. He has decided to cancel his participation in events of a representational nature in the coming weeks."

Among the events which were scrubbed from the schedule were the annual receptions given by the presidents of the National Assembly, Senate and the Constitutional Council.

Newsman who saw Pompidou in Iceland during the summit conference last week with President Nixon were struck by the fact that he was wearing a topcoat, muffler and a hat. His face appeared swollen — a feature that has been noted for several months — and he seemed to have some difficulty in moving.

Officials said the functions being canceled are of a purely social nature outside the Elysee Palace. Pompidou still plans to go to Bonn on June 21-22 for a meeting with Chancellor Willy Brandt, they added, and his plans for a trip to China in September are unchanged.

When Democrat Calvin L. Rampton took the oath of office on New Year's Day, 1973, he became the first governor in Utah's history to begin a third term.

Maude Busey Dies Tuesday: Rites Thursday

Mrs. Maude Busey wife of Edgar T. Busey, of 715 Jordan street, died at 5:10 a.m. Tuesday at Norris hospital.

Mrs. Busey was born at Versailles May 2, 1890, daughter of William and Jane Leeper McNeal. She married Mr. Busey in Springfield May 25, 1916. Surviving is a son, Harold of Kennewick, Washington. There are 3 grandchildren and three great grandchildren. A brother, Elmer E. McNeil of Jacksonville, also survives. One brother, Fred is deceased.

Mrs. Busey was a long time member of First Baptist church and the Amoma class of the church. She was also a member of the Letter Carrier's Auxiliary.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at First Baptist church with Rev. Harry Mattingly officiating. Interment will be in Diamond Grove cemetery.

The family will meet friends at Gillham-Buchanan Funeral Home 3 to 4 and 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. Wednesday. Consideration is asked for memorials to First Baptist church building fund.

Box Tops Inspire Pet Peeve Poetry

By POLLY CRAMER
DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is "I've had it up to here, —Cereal box tops I can't Spindle, fold or tear.—Soap powder box tops that say Push in-pull back.—Instead I pull all the muscles in my back.—I wish they would just Put them all up In an old paper sack.—Perhaps I won't win a Polly Dollar.—But it sure feels good Just to holler!

Also, I have a Pointer for people like me, who lose those twisties or tabs that fasten bread wrappers, or have stiff fingers from arthritis. After the required number of slices have been removed from the loaf simply twist the top of the bag tightly and bring the open end back over the loaf of bread.—MARY U.

Polly's Problem
DEAR POLLY—I would like to know how to make those square sofa pillows with yarn pom-poms on the top. I cannot find the directions any place. Can someone help me?—VIRGINIA

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer suggests a gift for new mothers. Melt ordinary wax in a coffee can and color LIGHTLY with crayon if you wish, but be sure the wax remains very pale. Cut the birth announcement you have received along the fold, dip each half in this melted wax and leave them to dry. Pour the remaining wax in a drinking glass and insert each half of the announcement next to the edge of the glass. Let harden and then remove. Wax can be shaved from the front of the formed candle to bring the announcement closer to the surface. A wick could be inserted if desired. This makes a great keepsake.—VICKIE

DEAR POLLY—High chairs have a way of getting caked with dried goop that ordinary wiping does not remove. At times like that I put the chair in the tub, close the curtain and turn the shower on "Hot" for about three minutes. Scrub with a scrubber, rinse and it will look like new. (Polly's note—Be sure to dry thoroughly so no rust could appear on a metal chair.)—MRS. E.R.K.

DEAR POLLY—Cotton-tipped baby swabs do a thorough job of removing fingernail polish. They get in the corners and around the cuticle.—PAM
DEAR POLLY—Mrs. J.A.P. could use vinegar on a sponge to wipe the detergent rings off her washer and dryer. Rinse with clear water and then wax if you like.—MARGARET

DEAR POLLY—When ready to feed my young son two or three kinds of baby food for one meal, I put the required amount of each in a baby food jar, set them in an aluminum pie plate and put water in the pan. This shallow water heats quickly so all three jars are ready at the same time with no messy pots to clean—just wipe out the pie plate.—CAR-OLE

DEAR POLLY—I keep my paste shoe polish in the refrigerator so it does not dry out.—STANLEY

Of course, there might be a doubleton queen-jack of spades, but South didn't believe in miracles.

He ducked the first two hearts as a matter of general practice. A third heart was led and East splattered on the 10 of clubs.

All of a sudden, South had some hope. He won that third heart; led a diamond to dummy and played the seven of clubs. East covered with the eight and was allowed to hold the trick.

A club was led back and South was back on lead with his ninth trick right in sight provided West held both the queen and jack of spades.

South led the 10 of spades with every intention of letting it ride, but West covered with the queen.

South won in dummy and cashed the rest of the diamonds. West had to throw a heart on the last diamond whereupon South threw him in with the last heart to force West to lead a spade and give South that ninth trick.

By BUFORD GREEN Sports Editor McCARVER RATES AS TOP PROPHET

Besides bualifying for "hero of the week" honors in St. Louis, Tim McCarver also rates a gold star as a prophet as far as this writer is concerned.

Interviewing McCarver in the Cardinal clubhouse last Friday evening, this scribe was told, "I'm sure I can still help this team." Whether or not McCarver had "a feeling" we don't know, but look what happened the next two days.

Sitting out Friday's game, McCarver arrived as a pinch hitter in the eighth inning of Saturday's game and delivered a dramatic grand slam homer, setting off the Cardinal bench in a scene reminiscent of the pennant years in the 1960's. McCarver produced again Sunday with a bases-loaded single that sent the Cards home with another victory, their 14th in their last 16 outings.

THE WEEKEND heroics were definitely the highlight of the current season for McCarver, but the guess here is that he will get many more chances before September and don't bet against him coming through more than occasionally.

McCarver, a Cardinal favorite since 1963 (except for that incident with Lou Brock when Tim was with Philadelphia in 1971), is playing a new role this year—that of a utility man—and that was the basis on which the interview was conducted as McCarver dressed quickly Friday to greet a group of friends from his hometown of Memphis.

The friendly, talkative McCarver, who is as much at home with an interviewer as he is on the diamond, readily agreed that this year is a new experience for him and took it from there.

"Yes," started McCarver, "this is something different for me this year, but I haven't had any trouble adjusting to it and don't anticipate any problems. I have always considered myself to be realistic about everything, and I think a player in my situation now has to be realistic. It is only normal and natural to want to play every day and to have a regular position, but I approached this year realistically.

"I KNOW I CAN help the Cardinals this year and think I can help in several ways. I know that I am willing to help in whatever way I can and wait only to be called upon. By this I don't mean, either, to indicate that I am not capable of playing every day. The Cardinals, however, are strong at the corners (catching, first and third base) and I can't expect to play regular if Ted (Simmons), Joe (Torre) and Ken (Reitz) keep going strong."

McCarver isn't all that old (he will be 32 in October) but his arm and legs aren't what they were when the 6-0, 200-pounder became a Red Bird regular in 1963. McCarver was the regular Cardinal backstop for seven seasons before going, along with Curt Flood, Joe Hoerner, Byron Brown, et al, to the Phillies for Richie Allen in 1970. He spent two seasons with the Phils before splitting last year with Philadelphia and Montreal, coming back to St. Louis for Jorge Roque last November.

A lifetime .273 hitter, McCarver has driven in 13 runs in only 63 official at bats this year with already four game-winning hits.

McCARVER, WHO has a World Series batting average of .311 (1964, 1967-68) and a 1,000 (three-for-three) All-Star Game plate mark, continued with his feelings toward his part-time role. "I believe you have to be involved in what you are doing and you have to keep an optimistic outlook. You can't let changes affect you to the point where it hurts your play. You can't defeat yourself, and that is easier to do than one might think. In other words, I have to be ready to pinch hit when called upon, and I have to be ready to fill in at whatever position I am needed, and I have to be mentally ready and willing.

"I have been a regular for 11 years and it would be easy to get down. It would be a lot harder to adjust to a part time situation if I was a younger player just breaking in, but I think I am mature enough to handle the situation."

McCARVER WON'T say whether he plans to play one, two or three more years, but definitely wants to stay around baseball. "I want to continue playing for awhile, depending on how things go, but there are several ways I can go after I retire as a player. I would like very much to stay in baseball in some capacity, and I hope it is in an on-the-field capacity." Without saying as much, McCarver indicated he wouldn't be averse to becoming a manager, or at least a coach at the big league level.

On the subject of returning to St. Louis, McCarver makes no bones about his feeling for the town and the Cardinal organization. "I love St. Louis as does my family. We have always considered St. Louis our home away from home (Memphis) and it certainly didn't hurt our feelings when we returned this year."

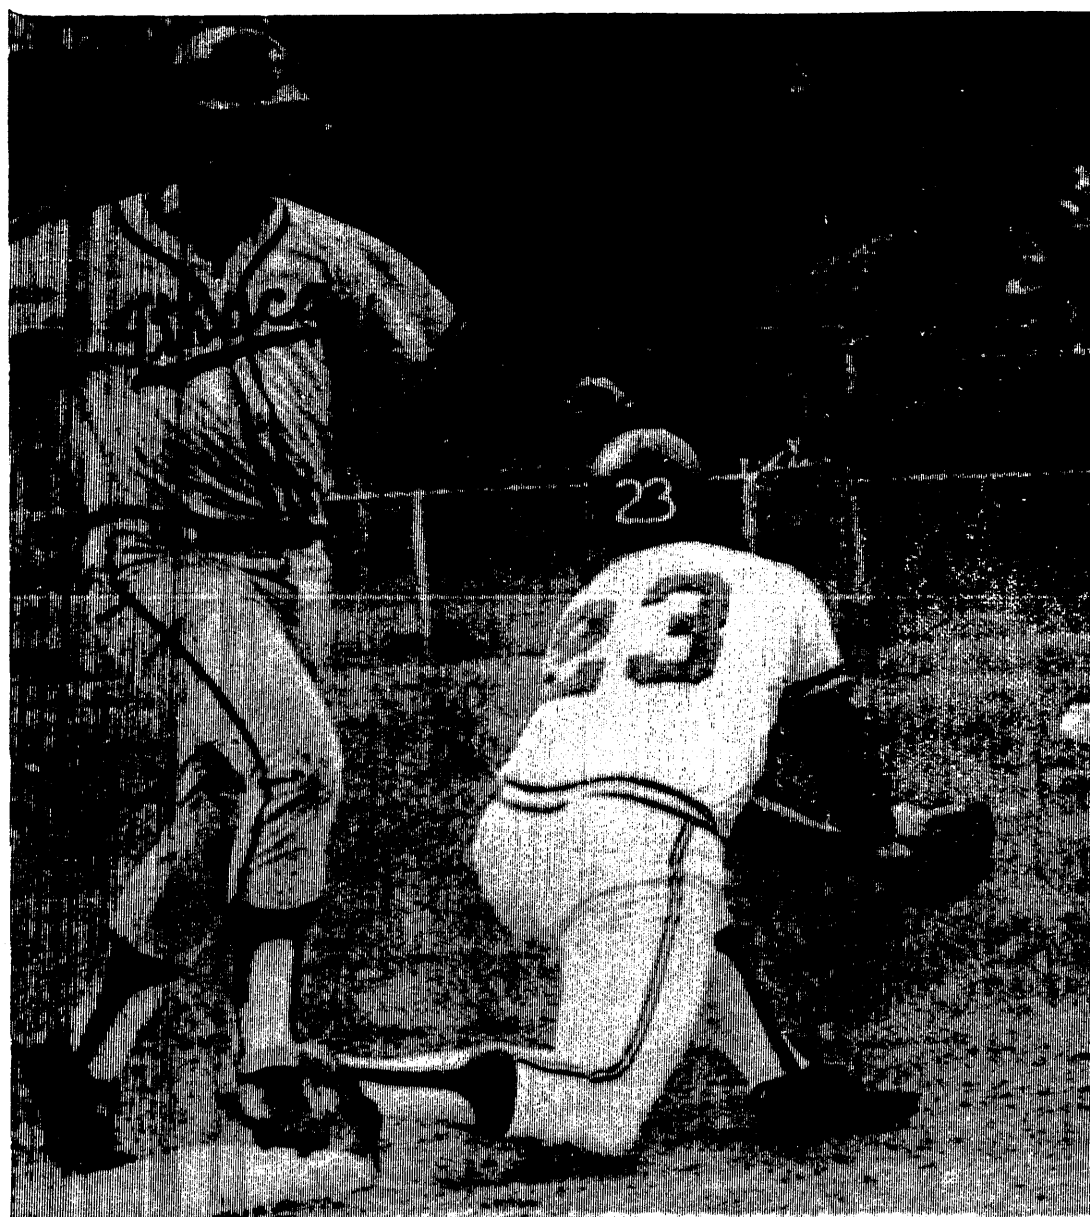

HERE 'N' THERE: Jacksonville's Rod Jackson turned in another spectacular performance for Eastern Illinois University this past weekend. Jackson, a senior, captured the 440 yard intermediate hurdles in the NCAA College Division national finals at Crawfordsville, Ind., Saturday with a time of :51.1, and came in third in the 120 yard highs in :13.8. Jackson's best this year, :50.8, is listed fourth best in the nation this year by Track and Field News. JHS grad Abe Brown, a junior at North Texas State U., finished third in the United States Track and Field Federation meet in Wichita over the weekend with a leap of 50'9". Lincoln Land Junior College freshman George Haley, also a Crimson product, finished fourth in his heat of seven in the 440 intermediates in the same USTFF meet with a time of :54.4 and did not make the finals. The event was won in :52.6. Haley will be participating in the national Junior Olympics in Gainesville, Fla., later this month, with the first two finishers in each event to tour Europe later in the summer.

TICKET SALES for "Jacksonville Night" at Busch Stadium June 23 are picking up rapidly, according to Chamber of Commerce Executive Secretary Ernie Stainton. The 7:00 contest that evening pits local favorites St. Louis and Chicago, with the $3 this year being excellent seats behind first base. Stainton reports that over 500 tickets have already been sold. Tickets, which may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce office, will be available until June 20. Jacksonville holds all the records for community nights at Busch Stadium.

DISTRICT ASA Commissioner Ed Killam has issued another reminder for local and area slow pitch softball teams interested in being eligible for the Greenfield Regional later this summer to get registered with the ASA quickly. Teams must be registered prior to July 1 to be placed in the Regional, with the top four teams from that Regional advancing to the State Finals in Jacksonville Aug. 10-19. Killam may be reached in the evening by calling 243-1346. ROUTT HIGH graduates Steve Kaufmann was a varsity letter winner this spring at Knox College in Galesburg.

California-Irvine Nets College Title

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (AP)—Half-pint shortstop Rich Molina drove in two runs and scored three times Tuesday as California-Irvine won the National Collegiate Athletic Association college division World Series 9-3 over Ithaca College.

Molina, who stands 5-foot-6, drilled a single to center with the bases loaded in the fourth inning to break a 2-2 deadlock and put California Irvine ahead to stay. He had three other singles and a walk in six trips.

Outfielder Jack Cleveland then singled in two more to cap the four-run outburst. Ithaca threatened in the ninth when two men walked and center fielder Jim Redmon singled pinch hitter Bob Didsbury across.

Amateur relief pitcher Bob Barlow then walked first baseman Dave Hollowell to load the bases and Gary Wheelock was brought in to pitch. Wheelock hit the first man he faced but got the last two men on infield outs.

Ithaca, which lost a semifinal game 5-0 to the same Antaeus, made four errors in the championship game—the third game they played in the day.

Ithaca eliminated Eastern Illinois with a 3-2 win in another semifinal earlier in the day. Eastern finished third in the tournament.

Rains, which washed out play Saturday and Monday, forced the jam-up of games Tuesday.

California-Irvine scored in the first inning when first baseman Jeff Malinoff singled Molina across.

After two were out in the third, Ithaca shortstop Jim Doherty singled and Redmond singled him to third.

Doherty scored a double steal and center fielder Dennis Leyden singled in Redmond. California-Irvine came back with a run in their half of the third and in the fourth went ahead to stay.

Doherty drove in two runs with a single and a sacrifice fly in the Ithaca win over Eastern Illinois.

Doherty drove in catcher Jim Volkman with a single in the fifth inning and second baseman Lou Conte with a sacrifice fly in the seventh.

First baseman Dave Hollowell hit a homerun for Ithaca in the second inning.

Eastern Illinois, which managed only four hits off pitcher Scott Hamilton, scored when catcher Eldon Triesenberg singled in a run in the fifth and on a sacrifice fly by first baseman Dave Haberer in the seventh.

Dickman fanned nine batters in the five innings and allowed only two singles.

Kiwanis took advantage of 11 walks and ten fielding errors. The winners scored once in the second on two hits, broke loose for six in the third and added single tallies in the fourth and fifth.

Pitcher Jerry Mares shut out Ithaca 5-0 on a two-hitter in the first semi-final game.

Catcher Terry Stupny and first baseman Jeff Malinoff provided Maras with all the runs he needed as each man singled across one run in the third inning.

Third baseman Dave Lyons then blasted a ground ball at Ithaca shortstop Dennis Leyden, who was unable to come up with the ball and a third run scored.

Ithaca pitcher Craig Paterniti, going the route for the second time in the tourney, got the loss.

California-Irvine scored twice in the eighth inning as right-fielder Clark Schenz bunted safely, left-fielder Jack Cleveland tripled and Stupny, who had three hits in four trips, doubled. Ithaca 000 000 000-4 3

Little League

The Cubs rolled to a 10-6 victory over the Dodgers in Elks Little League action Tuesday evening.

In the other scheduled game the Yanks were leading the Tigers 6-5 in the bottom of the sixth with two outs, the bases loaded and a 3-2 count on the batter when rain halted the contest. The outcome will be decided later.

The Cubs jumped to a 4-0 lead and raised it to 9-2 in the third. Shaw had two doubles and a triple for the losers.

Streaking Cardinals Top San Diego, 5-3

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jose Cruz slammed a tie-breaking two-run triple with two out in the eighth inning and scored on a wild pitch, lifting the torrid St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-3 victory over the San Diego Padres Tuesday night.

Ted Simmons started the uprising with a one-out double off loser Bill Greif, 4-6, and Tim McCarver was purposely passed. After Luis Melendez flied out, Cruz tripped to right field and scored when Greif uncorked a wild pitch.

The Padres scored in the ninth off reliever Diego Segui on a triple by Enzo Hernandez and John Grubb's infield hit.

The Cardinals, who have won four in a row and 15 of their last 17 games, scored in the second on a walk and singles by McCarver and Cruz. They made it 2-0 in the third when Lou Brock got an infield hit, stole second, took third on catcher Fred Kendall's throwing error and scored on Ted Sizemore's sacrifice fly.

Arizona State Has Top Rating Among Colleges

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona State heads into this weekend's College World Series the No. 1 team in the final season poll conducted by the newspaper "Collegiate Baseball."

The Sun Devils, with a 56-6 regular season record, nipped defending national champion Southern California by one point, with 495 in the power index rating.

Southern Cal, which defeated ASU in a head-to-head fight for the national crown last year, finished its regular season at 42-11. The two teams are sure to be rated favorites for the title this year.

In the college division, California at Irvine was voted top team for the season, edging Florida Southern, which had been No. 1 for the last two years.

Irvine had a 43-13 record, coming on strong in the latter half of the season, while Florida Southern dropped from No. 1 about halfway through the year and finished 27-6.

In the university division, Minnesota charged into third place, bumping Texas to fifth. Georgia Southern remained in fourth, while the rest of the top 10 featured Oklahoma in sixth, Harvard seventh, Penn State eighth, Miami, Fla. ninth, and Southern Illinois at Carbondale 10th.

In the college division, it was Missouri at St. Louis in third, followed by U.S. International University, Pembroke State, Jacksonville, Eastern Illinois, Grand Canyon, Ithaca and Valdosta State.

"Knock on Wood"
The expression "knock on wood" goes back to an early form of worship when primitive man worshiped nature and, in particular, trees. So primitive man rapped on trees in order to summon up spirits that would favor whatever he planned to do.

Howe's Sons Ink Houston Contracts

HOUSTON (AP)—Former National Hockey League great Gordie Howe took the role of a proud father Tuesday as his sons, Mark and Marty, signed four-year contracts with the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association.

But Howe, currently a vice president with the Detroit Red Wings of the NHL, may not be far behind his sons in signing a multi-year agreement with the fledgling league.

"Thank you for sharing in the proudest moment of Houston Aero history," Aero president Jim Smith said in announcing the contracts. "Gordie's main concern today was for his sons. 'We're continuing to negotiate with Gordie and we hope to have another announcement in the near future.'"

Howe, 45, retired from the Red Wings as a player two years ago. One of his few unfilled goals in the National Hockey League was to play on the same team with his sons.

"Jim (Smith) and I are in the same ballpark," the elder Howe said of his own negotiations with the Aeros.

"Again, it is just a matter of one word—money. All the cards are on the table. The figures that were put out on the table won't change, it's just a matter of coming to terms."

Smith said the contract talks with Howe involve having him play for a certain length of time, then join the Aero front office.

"We're talking in terms of a contract as long as his sons," Smith said. "How long Gordie played would be up to him."

Mark, 18, was the first player drafted by the Aeros in the recent WHA draft and Marty, 19, went in the eighth round.

"We don't usually get this much attention," said Marty, who with Mark has been playing junior league hockey.

"I hope I can stand up to what they want me to do."

"I'm not really sure that I have the confidence yet," Mark said. "But they had the guts to draft me above some pro players and that certainly helped my confidence."

Demolition Derby Set For Sunday

The first Demolition Derby of the summer will be held this Sunday afternoon at Jacksonville Speedway, with the derby using the full quarter-mile track.

The event is sponsored by the Jacksonville American Business Club (Ambucs), in cooperation with the staff of Jacksonville Speedway at the Morgan County Fairgrounds.

The Demolition Derby will be Open Competition, with a $600 total purse. There will be two heats, with the last ten cars running in each heat winning $10 and moving on to the feature. First in the feature pays $175, second $100, third $50 and fourth $25. An added feature this year will be a Powder Puff Derby, with all women 18 or over eligible. The same rules apply, with $50 going to the winner.

Gates will open at 1:00, with the first race starting at 2:30. Entry fee is $50 per car-driver and $3 for a pit pass. Admission in the grandstand will be $2 for adults, $7.50 for children 6-12 and under six free.

Cars entered in the Derby must have title left at the pit gate. Title will be returned when car is removed from the track. All cars to be removed not later than 48 hours after race. Cars must have side glass down, with no glass, lights, etc. Safety belts and helmets are required and doors chained or welded.

Los Angeles Races Past Chicago, 10-1

CHICAGO (AP)—Ron Cey's triple, scoring each time, and single home a run in the eighth, when the Dodgers scored three times to clinch the victory.

After Davis singled in the third, he went to third base on a single by Ferguson and scored as Crawford bounced into a double play. After Davis tripled in the fifth, he scored on a sacrifice fly by Crawford.

Crawford opened the eighth with a double off reliever Dave LaRoche. Cey walked and Maty Mota beat out an infield hit to load the bases. Crawford scored on Bill Russell's sacrifice fly. One out later, Lee Lacey walked and Bill Buckner and Davis followed with run-scoring singles.

The Cubs had good scoring chances in the early innings but couldn't get the big hit. Glenn Beckert singled and Jim Hickman walked in the first inning

Top Draft Picks In High School

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the top selections of baseball's free agent draft have a little unfinished amateur business to tidy up before turning their attention to professional offers from the major leagues.

Left-handed pitcher David Clyde of Houston will hurl for Westchester High School in the Texas State High School Championship Tournament in Austin this weekend.

Involved in the same tournament will be San Antonio's Robert E. Lee High School and its star shortstop, Pat Rockett. Should Lee and Westchester win their first games, Clyde and Rockett will find themselves on opposite sides of the field in the final game.

Their confrontation would be most interesting, especially to the Texas Rangers, who made Clyde the No. 1 selection in the summer free agent draft Tuesday, and to the Atlanta Braves, who chose Rockett in the opening round.

Clyde was the most highly touted player available to the 24 major league teams when they sat down to assess the free agent crop. He has pitched nine career no-hitters and averaged two strikeouts per inning, and there is a chance that he could move straight to the majors just as a number of previous No. 1 draft choices have.

"I expect to get banged around," said Clyde "because it happens to everybody. Up there, everybody with a bat is dangerous."

Clyde and Rockett, like the other high school flashes drafted Tuesday must decide between pro baseball and college scholarship offers. Rockett, for example, is a standout football player as well and has signed a letter of intent to attend the University of Texas.

After Texas drafted Clyde, the Philadelphia Phillies picked John Stearns, a catcher from the University of Colorado. Shortstop Robin Yount of Woodland Hills, Calif., was picked next, by Milwaukee. The fourth player chosen was Dave Winfield, an outfielder from the University of Minnesota, picked by San Diego. Cleveland selected Glenn Tufts, an infielder from Bridgewater, Mass., and the San Francisco Giants came up with Johnnie Lemaster, a shortstop from Paintsville, Ky.

HOUSTON: David Clyde, the 18-year-old fireballing southpaw selected number one in Tuesday's baseball draft by the Texas Rangers, seems to be a throwback to a past age. He likes to play baseball for the sheer enjoyment of it. Clyde talks with Ranger representative by phone. (UPI Telephoto)

Americans Post Strong Showing In British Meet

PORTHCAWL, Wales (AP) — Jim Crawford's hole-in-one, Ed Anlage's magic putter and John Dreyfus' determination led a good show by Americans in the British Amateur Golf Championship Tuesday.

In all, 20 of the 50 starters from the United States advanced to the second round of the prestigious event over the 6,605-yard, par 72 Royal Porthcawl course, and late in the day, Ed Tutwiler and Robert A. Roos Jr. moved into the third round.

The only major upset of the day was the ouster of seeded player Charlie Green of Scotland. Green, a member of the British Walker Cup team, was a 1-up victim of Peter Light, a 20-year-old Welsh golfer. He was the third of the eight seeded players to bow out of the tournament.

However, the defending champion, Trevor Homer of England, beat fellow countryman Chris Seale 3 and 2.

Crawford, a 51-year-old physician from Winston-Salem, N.C., erred the 152-yard 14th hole en route to a 3 and 2 victory over C. K. Mammel of Denver. It was the first hole-in-one official of this ancient tournament could recall and brought a roar of approval from the gallery.

Anlage, an airline pilot from Hialeah, Fla., one-putted five greens in a row, including an 18-footer on the seventh, and beat Ronald Stewart of Canada 4 and 3.

Dreyfus, a 31-year-old from White Plains, N.Y., making his debut in the British Open, was down by two to Andrew Carman of Scotland after 13 holes. But Dreyfus parred the next three and birdied Nos. 17 and 18 to finish 1-up.

"I ended two under par," Dreyfus said. "But I'll never listen again to anyone who says that British amateur players are easy to beat."

"We may have a better record in the Walker Cup than the British have, but the players here are very, very good," Tutwiler, a former Walker Cup player from Indianapolis, cruised to a 5 and 3 triumph over Peter Wadlow of England.

Other Americans to advance to the third round were Robert A. Roos Jr., of San Mateo, Calif.; George Holland, Medina, Wash.; and Roger McManus, Hartsville, Ohio.

Among other American first-round victors Tuesday, Dick Siderow, a prime Walker Cup prospect from Easton, Conn., beat Peter Hegges of Britain 4 and 2 and Jack Buettler of Clarkston, Wash., ousted a leading British Walker Cup contender, Willie Milne of Scotland, 1-up.

Beach. August Juricic, Joliet, second baseman at Joliet Central High School, drafted by Chicago Cubs for Quincy.

David Richards, Forest Park, catcher at Proviso East High School, drafted by Los Angeles Dodgers for Bakersfield.

David Martin, Chicago, first baseman-outfielder at Kennedy-King Junior College, drafted by St. Louis Cardinals for St. Petersburg.

Greg Biagini, Northbrook, first baseman-outfielder at Iowa State University, drafted by Montreal Expos for West Palm Beach.

Darrell Flowers, Cairo, left-handed pitcher at Cairo High School, drafted by Philadelphia Phillies for Auburn.

Robert Polock, Chicago, second baseman at the University of Illinois, drafted by San Diego for Walla Walla.

Other Illinoisans selected in later phases for farm clubs included:

Paul Downey, southpaw pitcher, from Collinsville, by Cincinnati; Don Miller, right-handed pitcher, from South Holland, by the White Sox; Phil Klimas, third baseman from Chicago, by the White Sox; outfielder Jonathon Astroh of Glen Ellyn, by Texas; catcher Barry Mollenbrugg of Loves Park, by Texas.

Outfielder James Hill, of Millstedt, by the Yankees; outfielder Randy Trapp of Oak Lawn by the New York Mets; A outfielder Don Walker of Centralia, by St. Louis; Outfielder Kenneth Kral of Lake Villa, by the Cubs; catcher Steve Scott of St. Anne, by Cleveland; Lefty thrower Dana Pearson of Cobden, by St. Louis.

Righty Michael Newmann, of Chicago, by the Mets; Laurence Calufetti, of Harrisburg, by the Mts; Elbert Coulter, a lefty pitcher from Chicago, by the White Sox; outfielder Tom Kettinger of Oak Park, by Pittsburgh; Lefty David Rende of Blue Island by the White Sox.

Righthanded pitcher William Semosrott of Danville was the only Illinoisan selected in the secondary phase.

Tom Kinkelaar, Mundelein, right-handed pitcher at Mundelein High School, drafted by New York Mets for Pompano

Nastase Gains French Crown In Three Sets

PARIS (AP) — Ilie Nastase, Romanian tennis star, sent a stream of backhands past Yugoslav's Nikki Pilic Tuesday and beat him 6-3, 6-3, 6-0 to win the $135,000 French Open Tennis championship for the first time.

Less than an hour later a second blow hit Pilic. The International Lawn Tennis Federation announced he was suspended until June 30, which means he is banned from the Italian championships and Wimbledon.

The suspension was first announced by the Yugoslav Tennis Federation two weeks ago because Pilic had refused to play for his country in the Davis Cup. It appeared at first that he would be banned from the French championships.

But he appealed to the ILTF, was allowed to play pending the appeal and fought through to the final.

The Nastase-Pilic final lasted 90 minutes. Nastase made it look so easy that the 10,000 fans scarcely ever got excited.

Pilic, 3, started well enough and won the first three games. Then Nastase, 26, got into his stride, and the Yugoslav left-hander managed to win only three games in the remaining 21.

Nastase won a first prize of about $15,500.

Continue Probe Of Crash Causes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — There still is no official cause listed for the violent crashes of race cars driven by David "Salt" Walker and Swede Savage during last week's running of the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

United States Auto Club officials are continuing analysis of films and wreckage from the crash.

Films have shown that Walker's car flipped up into the 15-foot straightaway fence after tapping a wheel on Jerry Grant's car.

Player Freedom, Artificial Turf To Be Discussed

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Player freedom, artificial turf and collective bargaining are some of the issues being tackled by the National Football League Players Association during four days of meetings here.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said Tuesday the meetings were aimed at attracting attention to "the player's rights by having most of the players come and discuss their points and grievances so that some solutions can be attained."

"Where before it was usually thought that John Mackey and I controlled the players' negotiations, now we have better communication and a more one-and-one relationship between the players where things can be discussed," Garvey said at a news conference with Mackey, San Diego Chargers tight end and president of the NFLPA.

Mackey said players attending the convention hoped to outlaw the NFL's reserve clause and rules limiting a player to playing for one specific team.

"It's incredible that the players are the only ones in society who do not have their freedom," he said. "The major concern is that when the player gets drafted he is obliged to play for that team only or else doesn't play football at all."

Garvey said the players were asking NFL owners to await a ruling from the safety commission setting standards for artificial turf. Both Garvey and Mackey said most players preferred playing on natural turf but added a new type of artificial turf just introduced may be softer than grass.

"But all we're asking now for the time being is that the owners stop installing artificial surfaces until some safety standards can be set," Garvey said.

Fisk Again Hot As Red Sox Rip Kansas City 9-2

BOSTON (AP) — Carlton Fisk drove in four runs for the second game in a row with a homer and double, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 9-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Tuesday night behind Marty Pattin's seven-hit pitching.

The Red Sox jumped on loser Dick Drago, 5-5, before he retired a batter in the first inning. Rick Miller drew a lead-off walk, Reggie Smith singled and Fisk, who also hit a three-run homer Monday night, drilled his 11th home run of the season into the screen atop the left field wall.

Kansas City nicked Pattin, 57, for a run in the third on a walk, an error and John Mayberry's single, his 53rd run batted in.

Boston kayeed Drago with another three-run outburst in the sixth. Carl Yastrzemski walked and scored on Orlando Cepeda's single off the wall in left-center. Cepeda was thrown out trying to stretch his hit into a double. Rico Petrocelli and Tommy Harper hit successive two-baggers and Harper scored on a single by Miller.

Fisk doubled home another run in the eighth. Kan City 001 000 100-2 7 1 Boston 300 003 12x-9 14 1 Drago, Simpson (6) and Kirkpatrick; Pattin and Fisk. W-Pattin (5-7). L-Drago (5-5). HR-Boston, Fisk (11).

MINNESOTA, CLEVELAND GAME POSTPONED

CLEVELAND (AP) — Harmon Killebrew lost his 545th career home run and Rod Carew also lost a homer when the Minnesota Twins, leading 4-0, were rained out of Tuesday night's game against the Cleveland Indians.

The game was halted for the second time with the Indians batting in the bottom of the third inning and was called after a one-hour wait. It was rescheduled as part of an afternoon doubleheader Wednesday.

House Passes More Abortion Legislation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Legislation to outlaw abortions performed for any reason except to save the life of the pregnant woman was approved, 101-24, Tuesday by the Illinois House and sent to the Senate.

Sponsored by Rep. Robert J. Walters, R-Alton, the measure would make other abortions class III felonies.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in January that the state may not interfere with the decision of a woman and her physician to go ahead with an abortion in the first three months of pregnancy.

Walters told the House that his bill made it "our turn to tell the courts that we in Illinois are in favor of the lives of the unborn."

A large number of bills to regulate abortion have been approved by both houses this session.

The House refused to pass legislation sponsored by Rep. Susan Catania, R-Chicago, that would require women to obtain permission of the "father" before having an abortion. Mrs. Catania kept the measure alive with a postponement. In other action, the House approved, 90-40, and sent to the Senate legislation to allow the Department of Registration and Education to revoke the real estate licenses of brokers who engage in racial "panic peddling."

Sponsored by Rep. Michael Madigan, D-Chicago, the measure was criticized by some lawmakers as a "backlash bill" that would be a poor substitute for the open housing legislation that has been introduced in the General Assembly with little success over the last 10 years.

"The bill will have nothing to do with solving racial problems," Majority Leader William D. Walsh, R-LaGrange Park, told the House. "It just infringes on individual liberties."

Madigan replied that it would curb "real estate brokers who play on fears of the community to make exorbitant profits."

The measure is aimed at the so-called panic peddling brokers who solicit homeowners to sell their property and encourage them to do so with warnings that racial change is coming to their neighborhoods.

"I also would transfer from the state Human Relations Commission to the Registration and Education Department lists of persons who do not wish to be solicited to sell their homes for any reason."

"No black people are sponsors of this bill," Rep. Susan Catania, R-Chicago, declared as she cast a negative vote.

"All the sponsors are from the lily white southwest side of Chicago."

In other action, the House approved, 110-9, legislation to bar banks from requiring a single woman to obtain a co-signer to get a loan unless a man would need a co-signer under the same circumstances.

Sponsored by Rep. Roscoe Cunningham, R-Lawrenceville, the measure was hailed as a step toward women's liberation by Rep. Giddy Dyer, R-Hinsdale, one of the sponsors of the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

Meanwhile, the Senate churned through a series of minor appropriations measures, many of the so-called pork barrel type for construction of small bridges and waterways projects.

Orioles Rally For 7-4 Count Over Sox, Wood

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tommy Davis, Baltimore's designated hitter, singled home the tying and lead runs and Bobby Grich stole home in a four-run eighth-inning rally that lifted the Orioles to a 7-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox Tuesday night.

Boog Powell, who hit a three-run homer in the fifth, led off the eighth with a single, the fifth hit off Wood, and pinch runner Enos Cabell was sacrificed to second. A walk to Rich Coggins and Grich's infield hit loaded the bases before Davis laced a 2-1 pitch to left field.

Al Bumbry ran for Davis and broke for second. When Wood wheeled to throw to second, Grich took off for the plate and scored standing up. Don Baylor's RBI double chased Wood and saddled the knuckleballer with his second straight setback and fifth of the season. The White Sox have dropped four in a row.

Powell's homer, only his second of the season, wiped out a 2-0 Chicago lead built on Dick Allen's 13th homer in the third inning off Mike Cuellar. Eddie Leon tied the score for the White Sox with a sixth-inning homer and Ed Herrmann put them on top 4-3 with a run-scoring single in the seventh.

Chicago 002 001 100-4 14 0 Baltimore 000 030 048-7 8 1 Wood, Acosta (8) and Herrmann; Cuellar, Jackson (5) and Williams, W-Jackson (1) 0, L-Wood (13-5), HRs—Chicago, Allen (13), Leon (2); Baltimore, Powell (2).

Skylab

(Continued From Page One) ripped off during Skylab's May 14 launch, is jamming the wing. Plans for the salvage job call for the spacewalkers to leave the space craft through a hatch and then assemble five-foot lengths of tubing into a 25-foot pole. A cable-cutting tool will be attached to one end of the pole. The astronauts will extend the pole and clamp jaws of the cutting tool onto the aluminum strap jamming the wing.

Kerwin will attach the butt end of the pole to the base of an antennae. He also will tie one end of a rope to a strut.

Using the pole as a handhold, Conrad will scramble 25 feet down from the hatch to the stuck solar wing. He will attach the other end of the rope to a vent on the solar wing.

With Conrad moving to one side, holding onto the rope, Kerwin then will try to cut the aluminum strap by pulling a lanyard to activate the bolt cutter.

If this fails, Conrad then will try to pry loose the strap using a tool resembling a crowbar. If the strap resists, he will use a wire-like saw to slice through it.

Once the strap is freed, Conrad must provide the muscle to snap the wing into place.

Experts believe this will require about 100 pounds of force.

FOIL ATTEMPT TO REACH W. BERLIN — East German wall guards foiled a woman's attempt to reach West Berlin Tuesday by shooting at her and then pummeling her with their rifle butts, witnesses reported.

They said the woman was discovered after she triggered an alarm on a fence on the East Berlin side of the wall.

Bertha Thornton Of Mt. Sterling Dies Tuesday

MT. STERLING — Bertha Thornton, 80, of Mt. Sterling died 4 a.m. Tuesday at Modern Manor Nursing Home here.

She was born in Brown county Oct. 17, 1892, a daughter of Bill and Ida Vance.

Mrs. Thornton attended Brown county schools and St. Mary's Catholic church. She was married to John Thornton Oct. 23, 1910. He preceded her in death.

Funeral services will be 9 a.m. Thursday at St. Mary's Catholic church with Father Louis Shea officiating. Burial will be in Catholic cemetery.

Friends may call at Hufnagel Funeral Chapel from 7 to 9 p.m. today. Rosary will be at 7:30 this evening.

Fairly's Homer In 11th Inning Tops Braves 7-6

MONTREAL (AP) — Ron Fairly belted a two-out homer in the 11th inning, powering the Montreal Expos to a 7-6 victory over the Atlanta Braves Tuesday night.

Fairly's shot over the right field fence, his eighth of the year, made a winner of Mike Marshall, 6-4. The loser was Ron Schueler, 1-2.

The Braves tied the game 6-6 with single runs in the seventh and eighth, capitalizing on infield errors by the Expos.

Atlanta had taken a 3-0 lead off Bill Stoneman in the second inning on run-producing infield cuts by Dave Johnson and Ralph Garr and an RBI single by Chuck Goggin.

Gemstone

He said the individual known as "Sedan Chair" had been paid $1,000 a month for 6-9 months from a cash fund maintained by Herbert L. Porter, director of the campaign committee's scheduling.

"That individual was receiving information, it seemed, from the (Hubert H.) Humphrey campaign," Reinsner said.

Reinsner said he doesn't remember Magruder specifically saying to him of the Gemstone material, "Don't look at this," but he indicated it was none of his concern.

Reinsner had given the committee a day-to-day diary he kept while working for Magruder.

Reinsner was asked who had the Gemstone files other than Magruder.

"I don't know," he said. And he agreed he got the impression that there was surreptitious activity going on.

He said he had no knowledge prior to June 17 that there were plans for the break-in. And Reinsner said he also didn't know of any plan to disrupt the Democratic campaign and had only circumstantial knowledge of political espionage.

But he said a demonstrator wearing a McGovern button was sent to sit in front of the White House for the negative publicity it would create for the presidential candidacy of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D.

Reinsner corroborated testimony by re-election committee office manager Robert Odle that on the day of the Watergate arrests Reinsner removed so-called sensitive files from the desk of Magruder, who was then in California.

That was after he had talked with Magruder by telephone. Odle then took the file home.

Asked if Magruder specified "Gemstone," Reinsner said "it is not my specific recollection that he did. He definitely identified the file folder."

CLAYTON FUNERAL IN ROODHOUSE — Funeral services for Pearl May Baird Clayton were held Monday afternoon at the Mackey-Daws Funeral Home with Rev. Neal Schultz officiating. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Wm. J. Rees, Jr.

Pallbearers were James Beasly, Cline Lawson, Jack Hazelwood, Clyde Reno. Burial was in the Pine Tree cemetery near Patterson with the Mackey-Daws Funeral Home in charge.

Mrs. Eugene Reynolds was called to Waukegan by the death of her sister, Mrs. Ethel Martin on May 23. Since her return home, Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds and daughter have as guests in their home another sister of Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Noren, Lake Forest.

Inmates Found Innocent Of Plotting Break

BENTON, Ill. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury returned a verdict of innocent Tuesday in the trial of four Marion federal penitentiary inmates accused of conspiring to escape under cover of an attack on the maximum security prison.

The seven man and five woman jury, which sat through five days of testimony, deliberated two hours and 40 minutes before returning the innocent verdict for Henry Gargano, Franklin Paris, Bernard Lewis and Kenneth Pendleton.

The government alleged they conspired with a former inmate, Robert L. Minchew, 34, of New Orleans.

Minchew, the government said, was to return to the prison after his release in February 1972 and open fire on two guard towers with machine guns and other automatic weapons stolen from Chipley, Fla., armory.

The plan collapsed in March 1972 when another former prisoner, Robert Brady, alerted federal authorities, the government said.

Minchew, however, failed to learn of Brady's revelation and was arrested May 4, 1972 in Benton with his weapons cache, authorities said.

Frederick Hess, assistant U.S. district attorney, alleges Minchew smuggled a message into the prison rescheduling the escape for May 12.

In his closing argument, Hess gestured to the defendants and described the 500 Marion inmates as the escape risks and the most difficult prisoners to control of all the 23,000 in the federal prison system.

At one point, Hess picked up one of the machine guns from the trial exhibits and used it as a prop while emphasizing the danger in which the plot would have placed the guards and the community had it gone undiscovered.

Defense lawyers spent their summation attacking the credibility of the main government witnesses, Minchew and Brady. They said that Brady was paroled shortly after the indictment was returned in June 1972 and that Minchew, who has pleaded guilty to conspiracy and has not been sentenced, was promised medical attention for his ulcers.

In addition, they said, the plot outlined by the government was ridiculous. It called for the defendants to signal Minchew, use homemade keys to open two prison doors, cross the prison yards, scale two barbed wire fences and then sprint 300 yards to the woods surrounding the penitentiary.

Hess called the plot "desperate but not believable."

Conviction carries a maximum sentence of five years in prison or fines of $10,000. All the defendants are serving terms for bank robbery or bank burglary.

TOURIST ROOM WINNIPEG (AP) — Manitoba's tourist industry had another boom year in 1972, with an estimated 3.5 million visitors from out of the province.

Tourism Minister Larry Desjardins said the figure represented an increase of about 225,000 over the 1971 total.

DaPONT TO HEAD DRUG ABUSE PREVENTION OFFICE — WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has nominated the head of the District of Columbia drug treatment program to be director of the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention.

He is Dr. Robert L. DuPont, a 37-year-old Democrat who has headed the District's program since 1970.

DuPont was nominated to succeed Dr. Jerome H. Jaffe, whose resignation Nixon accepted effective June 17. The President expressed "deep appreciation for his outstanding services" as head of the federal program since 1971. Jaffe indicated a desire to resume his academic career.

Last May DuPont had been nominated to serve as assistant to Jaffe, but that was never confirmed by the Senate and will now be withdrawn, according to White House Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren.

Sharp Fighting Breaks Out Over The Face Of Indochina

SAIGON (AP)—Sharp fighting broke out Tuesday in Cambodia and in South Vietnam some of the worst combat since the cease-fire prompted the government to dispatch reinforcements to the scene of battle in the Mekong Delta.

A U.S. spotter plane crashed and exploded just after take off in Cambodia, killing the pilot. He was the second American killed in Cambodia within two weeks. A failure of the spotter plane's engine was believed to have caused the crash.

The upsurge of action in the neighboring Indochinese countries came as:

—Henry A. Kissinger and Le Duc Tho of North Vietnam prepared to resume their discussions on firming up the Vietnam cease-fire and possibly setting up a cease-fire in Cambodia.

—The Viet Cong and South Vietnamese met in Saigon on delineating zones of control for the Vietnam cease-fire.

—North Vietnam's Communist party chief and premier conferred with Chinese leaders in Peking and also had a meeting with a representative of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the ousted Cambodian leader now in Chinese exile.

In Cambodia, hundreds of antigovernment rebels swept in waves across rice paddies 16 miles southwest of Phnom Penh to overrun a government company. U.S. bombing runs against enemy positions apparently failed to halt the rebel advance.

The insurgents tried to encircle the soldiers but failed to complete the ring. The defenders evaded the snare and fled 2½ miles through bushes to safety on Highway 4.

Liddy (Continued From Page One) logs detailing conversations between Nixon and Dean will be made available to Watergate prosecutors. Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren had said Monday the logs would not be made available.

On Tuesday, Warren said that statement had been an erroneous interpretation on his part of what he had been authorized to say: namely that the logs were presidential papers and therefore not subject to subpoena. The question of whether they will be made available on a voluntary basis has not been decided.

The logs became important after it was reported that Dean was prepared to testify that he had met with Nixon 35 to 40 times to discuss aspects of the coverup. The White House has said repeatedly that the President knew nothing of the coverup.

In still another move to placate critics who contend he has been too isolated, Nixon said he would include the two congressional Republican leaders, Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Rep. Gerald Ford of Michigan, in future Cabinet meetings and is going along with their request for closer liaison with the White House on legislative matters.

Scott said Tuesday that preliminary statistics showed the Nixon administration has reduced national security wiretappings and electronic surveillance to "the lowest level since World War II."

Scott said electronic surveillance in the name of national security conducted by the FBI dropped to just over 100 cases a year since Nixon took office. Scott's figures showed a high of 519 cases in 1945 and a low of 82 in 1968, the last year of the Johnson administration. Under Nixon, the national security-related electronic surveillance cases ranged from 101 to 129.

Meantime, a former aide in the Nixon re-election campaign told the Senate Watergate committee that he put documents labeled "Gemstone"—the code word for political espionage papers—into a file intended for use at a meeting with Mitchell.

Robert Reinsner, at one time an aide to Magruder, said the Gemstone material went into a file of "things Mr. Magruder wished to take up with Mr. Mitchell."

Earlier, Liddy's former secretary, Sally Harmony, told the committee she typed memoranda from sources known to her only as Ruby One, Ruby Two and Crystal. She said she did not know she was typing wiretapped conversations.

COUNTY PROBES WAVERLY BURGLARY Sheriff's deputies investigated a burglary at the Waverly Drug Store reported at 7:12 a.m. Tuesday.

Investigating deputies said entrance to the store was gained by prying a window on the south side of the building.

An undetermined amount of goods was reported as stolen in the burglary.

The incident is still under investigation.

In South Vietnam, heavy fighting was reported in the Mekong Delta only 40 miles south of Saigon. The Saigon command reported a combined casualty count of up to 200 dead, missing and wounded, and acknowledged nearly 25 per cent casualties among one government battalion.

A battalion of 400 Saigon reinforcements was rushed into the region, where the zones of control have not been defined. Government military sources claimed the Viet Cong were attempting to threaten Highway 4, Saigon's rice road the delta. The Viet Cong blamed the Saigon government, accusing it of land-grabbing operations.

The Saigon command said that the fighting to the north and south of Highway 4 had ended, but field reports said it was continuing.

Li. Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon command, claimed that 104 Viet Cong troops were killed in the two-day battle, with artillery support. But in the major clash, in which 59 enemy were claimed killed, only two weapons were listed as captured.

Total government losses were reported as 26 killed, 8 missing and 52 wounded.

Hien said the fighting was triggered by an enemy artillery and infantry assault Sunday against a government position three miles southwest of Cai Lay district town.

Flood Control, Pet Projects Advanced (Continued From Page One) The Illinois Senate passed about $40 million in appropriations for flood control and other pet projects in certain senators' districts Tuesday.

Most were in Cook and other northeastern counties.

Republican majority senators spearheaded the drive for movement to the House of bills for creeks and roads.

But Sen. Richard M. Daley, Chicago Democrat, obtained passage of $4.2 million for dredging Chicago park lagoons. Some other Cook County Democrats who have been cool toward the administration of Gov. Daniel Walker also helped approval of some of the bills.

After the adoption of the more than 40 appropriation measures, Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, said in an interview the GOP majority lived up to its promise to pass flood control bills toward the governor to give him a chance to "make good" on campaign pledges to act against flooding.

Sen. Terry Bruce, D-Olney, a member of the Democratic task force on appropriations, said that less than 10 per cent of the $40 million was in Walker's budget. However, Bruce said in the interview he expected the House would pass the measures on to Walker without reducing them.

"He'll have a field day," Bruce said of Walker in exercising his vetoes. "He'll make us look like a bunch of dummies."

Most of the appropriations—passed with votes in the range of 35-5, but Daley's bill passed 41-0.

About $10 million of the measures were for construction of highway projects that are not identified by sponsors as being in the governor's road program.

Sen. Robert McCarthy, D-Decatur, argued against extending.

Other appropriations voted by the Senate to the House included $25 million to pay state income tax refunds this year, and $1,004,875 to refund certification fees to plumbing contractors after the act requiring certification was ruled invalid.

Sen. Kenneth Course, D-Chicago, obtained passage of the first bill, 46-1, and Sen. Robert Mitchell, R-Oswego, won passage of the plumbers bill 47-0. Both measures went to the House.

Sen. John Knuppel, D-Petersburg, obtained passage to the House 44-0 of a $1.6 million appropriation to fund authority for intercity railroad grants previously passed to the House. The grants were said to be helpful for Chicago college students traveling downstate.

Yankee Power Gains 8-6 Spread Over Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Jim Ray Hart smashed a three-run homer, Roy White clubbed a two-run shot and Ron Blomberg drove in three runs with a single and double Tuesday night, leading the New York Yankees to an 8-6 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Trailing 1-0, the Yankees took advantage of an error by second baseman Dave Nelson to score five unearned runs off Sonny Siebert, 3-4, in the sixth inning.

Horace Clarke reached on the error, Matty Alou singled and both men advanced on an infield out before scoring on Blomberg's two-out single off the glove of left fielder Alex Johnson. Graig Nettles also singled and Hart, the designated hitter, belted his fifth home run of the season.

New York 000 005 300-8 11 2 Texas 010 004 001-6 14 2 Stottlemyre, McDaniel (6), Lyle (9) and Munson; Siebert, Paul (7) and Suarez, W-McDaniel (4-1), L-Siebert (3-4), HRs—New York, Hart (5), White (4).

Goodson, Bryant Carry Giants By Pirates 3-2

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Ed Goodson cracked a run-scoring, tie-breaking double in the seventh and Ron Bryant won his ninth game of the season in the San Francisco Giants' 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Tuesday night.

Bobby Bonds led off the game with his 13th homer of the season and Goodson drove in another run in the opening frame with his first of two doubles.

The Pirates tied the game 2-2 in the sixth off Bryant, 9-3, as Dave Cash singled and Al Oliver and Manny Sanguillen lashed consecutive doubles.

Loser Nelson Briles, 3-5, caused his own downfall in the seventh by hitting Garry Maddox and walking Willie McCovey for the third time before Goodson hit his game-winning double.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

It's Not A Sure Cure
Now Coronary
Bypass Common

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb—One year ago on November 30, my husband underwent open heart surgery. He had two veins removed from his leg to replace the bad arteries. A friend of ours had the same operation the day after my husband's. They are both 36 years old. Recently our friend had an artery collapse. Naturally this has upset us as my husband is now wondering if this is going to happen to him. Could you tell me what causes this to happen? Also, if you pass a certain length of time after an artery operation, does this mean your chances are better that they won't collapse. We would like all the information you can give us about these operations. My husband is on a low cholesterol diet. The doctors told us his count was so high that is why he had two heart attacks in 1971. My husband used to smoke but I think he has quit, although I think he sneaks one once in awhile. Please tell me how bad smoking is after an operation like his. He still has occasional chest pains and has his nitroglycerin with him at all times. Dear Reader—These operations are so common now in some medical centers that they are practically done on an assembly line basis. The idea is to use a vein taken from the leg and take a segment of it and sew it as a detour around a localized block in the coronary artery of the heart. This means, of course, that the fatty blocking in the artery has to be localized to a short segment. If the entire length of the artery is diseased, there is nothing to detour to. Because the detour "bypasses" the localized block, the operation is called a coronary bypass. The underlying disease that caused the fatty blockage of the artery originally is unaltered by the operation. The new vein that is used for a detour may develop the same fatty deposits and become blocked. A clot may form or other difficulties may occur.

Fortunately, the heart has three major arteries, the right coronary and two branches of the left coronary artery. Because tiny arteries connect between the small branches of these arteries nature has already provided a detour to provide some blood to the heart muscle if one of these become blocked.

There are arguments for and against this procedure. It is indicated in some cases and in others it is not. The bypass graft may be blocked with fatty deposits in a short or longer period of time, or not at all.

Since the underlying disease, atherosclerosis, is not corrected by surgery, the same measures used to prevent this process in the first place are just as important after surgery as before. This means no smoking and following the diet recommendations of the Inter-Society Commission on Heart Disease.

I've discussed diet before but the most important element is the elimination of any obesity whatever (being absolutely lean) and following a moderately fat restricted diet. A proper diet, elimination of smoking, and attention to overall habit patterns are exceptionally important after surgery in people who have disease of sufficient severity to warrant the surgery in the first place.

JELLIED SHERRY SALAD
This recipe comes from Virginia.

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1-3rd cup orange juice
1 1/2 tablespoons lemon juice
3/4 cup boiling water
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup dry sherry
1 1/2 tablespoons bourbon
Commercial sour cream and olives
Salad greens

In a medium mixing bowl sprinkle gelatin over orange juice and lemon juice; allow to soften — about 5 minutes. Add boiling water and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Add sugar, sherry and bourbon and stir until sugar is dissolved. Pour into four 1/2 cup molds or 6-ounce custard cups or six 1-3rd cup molds. Chill to set. At serving time turn out and top with sour cream and olives; garnish with salad greens. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

LONG TREAD LIFE

The radial ply construction reduces friction; the tire runs cooler, to lengthen tread life.

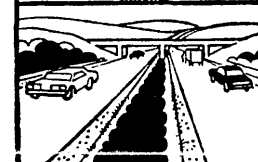

GREAT HANDLING AND CORNERING

Flexible sidewalls help keep the tread flat on the pavement, for increased control around curves.

ADDED STABILITY

Four belts of Dynacore rayon cord add toughness beneath the tread.

MILEAGE ECONOMY

Less "rolling resistance" means added mileage. See for yourself, radials are economical in the long run.

Colburn Blanks Oakland By 2-0 On Five-Hitter

OAKLAND (AP) — Jim Colborn pitched a five-hitter and Bob Coluccio hit a homer to lead the Milwaukee Brewers to a 2-0 victory over Ken Holtzman and the Oakland A's Monday night.

Colborn, 32, was in serious trouble only once. He gave up a leadoff double to Deron Johnson and a single to Gene Tenace in the fifth, but Angel Mangual popped out, Johnson was run down when Ray Fosse missed the pitch on an attempted suicide squeeze and Fosse then grounded out.

Coluccio's homer, his fourth of the season, came in the sixth inning and was enough to pin the loss on Holtzman, 10-3, and end his personal seven-game winning streak while extending the Brewers' winning string to four.

Holtzman was lifted after giving up a walk to Coluccio and a single to Dave May with one out in the eighth. Rollie Fingers came in and George Scott hit a fly ball to short center field which Bill North caught and threw toward the plate but shortstop Bert Campaneris cut off the throw as Coluccio scored.

Business — Market Wrapup

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While the stock market scene seems to bore Americans almost as much as those summer television reruns, foreign investors are acting as if they've had a preview of things to come.

They are buying, that is, at a time when a large segment of the American public is ignoring the market. And when any investor buys he either thinks or hopes that prices will rise.

The purchases are somewhat anomalous in that foreigners in other ways are proclaiming their distrust of the American economy, or perhaps of American political leadership, and are selling dollars feverishly. But they are buying stocks.

In the first quarter of the year the net total of foreign purchases — sales deducted from purchases — probably exceeded $1 billion.

This figure was more than double the net total of purchases at the like time a year earlier, when the market was rising rather than falling, as it is now.

While the domestic boredom with stocks is blamed on various factors — such as capital gains taxes, low dividend rates, Wall Street disorganization and customer distrust, to name a few — the foreign interest is attributed to value.

Whether these values are real or imagined is an outcome that nobody can forecast, but when you look at some of the facts on which foreign decisions are made you have to agree that they seem sound.

For instance, as Chase Manhattan Bank notes in its bi-weekly "International Finance," since 1970 the dollar has depreciated by an average of 17 per cent against currencies of Germany, Switzerland, France, the Netherlands, Belgium, Italy, Sweden, Canada, Britain and Japan.

That means an added price reduction on American stocks, some of which already are discounted to their lowest prices in years when matched against their ascending earnings. The principal foreign investors, says Chase, have been institutions, "investment trusts and some banks in Japan, and in the case of Europe, chiefly banks buying for managed accounts."

The American markets provide these institutions with large supplies of stock.

What are they buying? Despite the wide choices available, Chase quotes an international brokerage house specialist as saying they've been concentrating in high-quality growth stocks such as Eastman Kodak, Polaroid, Xerox and IBM.

While Chase explains that these are among the American companies with global interests and internationally recognized products, they are also among the preferred choices of many American institutions also.

Will the trend continue? Chase believes it will. It states that a number of positive factors encourages this view, including a lower U.S. inflation rate than in many countries and rising corporate profits.

Class-Action Suits Meeting Resistance From Judges

By G. DAVID WALLACE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In New Jersey, a class-action suit voided the contracts 24 customers had signed agreeing to pay $280 for home educational kits worth about $40.

For California home buyers, a class-action suit means a chance to earn interest on the tax escrow accounts required by the institutions holding their mortgages.

Drug companies accused of fixing prices, oil companies accused of levying excessive credit finance charges and a door-to-door freezer salesman accused of defrauding his customers all have felt the sting of class-action consumer lawsuits.

The class action suit, filed under federal and state laws, permits those with a common claim to combine their interests and mount a suit which wouldn't have been worth the effort and legal fees if several separate suits were necessary.

Such suits constitute a small but growing proportion of legal cases nationwide.

"Class action is becoming more popular, but not necessarily more successful," said Mark Budnitz, an attorney with the National Consumer Law Center.

The number of class-action suits pending in federal courts at the end of last year was 3,500. Nearly half of them deal with civil rights, and in total they make up about 3 per cent of all federal civil cases. By comparison 25,000 personal injury cases were pending.

The American College of Trial Lawyers studied the Southern District of New York, the single largest adjudicator of federal class-action suits, and found the number filed annually increased nearly four times in five years.

In some cases class-action suits have become a victim of their own popularity, producing a mixed pattern of acceptance by courts.

Five states have approved laws permitting consumer class-action suits, according to the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs. In 13 other states the restrictions on such suits have been eased.

But judges elsewhere have recoiled at the prospect of massive judgments.

The issue of paying interest on home mortgage tax escrow accounts, for example, was accepted as a class action in California, where the legislature has approved class-action bills dealing with consumer and environmental issues. A similar case was denied class-action status in the District of Columbia.

The federal Truth-in-Lending law fines offenders $100 for each instance of inadequate credit information disclosure. When lawyers sued Chemical Bank of New York on behalf of 130,000 charge card holders, the judge called the possible $13 million penalty a "horrendous, possibly annihilating punishment" and disallowed it as a class action. The Senate now is considering limiting liability to $50,000 or 1 per cent of a company's net worth for offenses against the lending act.

Another class-action case spent seven years bouncing back and forth from district to appellate courts. The issue was whether an estimated six million persons could sue jointly to get back as much as $60 million they claimed they had been overcharged on stock commissions.

An appeals court finally declared the suit unmanageable as a class action and said: "Class actions have sprouted and multiplied like the leaves of the green bay tree."

Beverly C. Moore Jr., co-author of a Ralph Nader report on antitrust enforcement and now a public interest Washington lawyer, said the stock commission ruling means, "We are about to see the end of significant class actions."

Nathaniel Colley, the California lawyer arguing the rent-escrow cases, said the decision "would in effect eliminate the intended effect of Rule 23." But Colley said the decision will not kill class action suits, particularly in the states.

Officials of the Pacific Legal Foundation, an arm of the California State Chamber of Commerce, have complained the state's class-action laws have led to harassment of business and the government. "I think California is going to start to tighten up its liberal approach to class action," said attorney Ronald A. Zumbro.

SOYBEAN FUTURES ADVANCE LIMIT

CHICAGO (AP) — A huge accumulation of purchase orders again lifted commodity futures prices in the major pits to limits on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday.

Soybean futures rose the 40 cent limit, but the unrestricted July option advanced 78 cents. Soybean meal gained $15 a ton but the unrestricted July option rose $20. Soy oil futures advanced some 80 points, about 20 short of the limit and the July option advanced 50 points.

Wheat and corn futures were up the limit of 10 cents a bushel on the opening and oats rose 5½ cents, just short of the 6 cent limit. Iced broilers gained 1½ cents, about ½ cent under the limit.

The advances in soybean and meal were the twelfth in succession. Demand for futures in all pits was very strong and sellers very thin.

Return of inclement weather to the Midwest and very light offerings from the country were factors in most buying.

A privately circulated crop report estimated that the government's goal of more than 6 billion bushels of corn this year may not be reached because much farm land in wet condition or under water still remains to be planted. This spurred buying of corn and oats futures. Buying in wheat also was influenced by the report.

After about an hour, soybeans were up 40 cents a bushel, with the July up 70 cents at 12.82; wheat was 8½ to 10 cents higher, July 3.03½; corn was 10 higher, July 2.43½; oats were 3½ to 5½ higher, July (old) 1.16½.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices closed higher Tuesday after five days of wide declines.

Analysts said Tuesday's rally had started as a technical reaction to the declines, then was given impetus by reports from Washington that were interpreted by some investors as indications the Nixon administration would impose new controls to stem inflation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished up 14.90 at 900.81. It had closed Monday down to 885.91, its lowest point since Dec. 27, 1971.

Big Board advancing stocks outpaced declines Tuesday by 877 to 540 in a relatively moderate trading volume of 14.08 million.

Analyst Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co said he believed the rally was basically a technical one since the negative factors that had been depressing the market still were present.

The dollar recovered somewhat on foreign markets Tuesday but was still weak. Gold continued to soar, but prices were trimmed by some profit taking. Analysts said Watergate still was a market depressant as were higher interest rates.

In what some investors interpreted as positive news Tuesday, the White House announced that President Nixon was meeting with his economic advisers.

"The market is hungering for some positive action from the administration," said Monte Gordon

Richardson Faces News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson said Monday that President Nixon would have to have his own personal lawyer in any confrontation between the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor.

Richardson also told newsmen he does not think the break-ins at the Watergate and the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist were justified.

In an hour-long news conference, the attorney general said the search for an FBI director has been greatly narrowed and that he hopes a successor to the late J. Edgar Hoover will be named soon.

Richardson said he could sympathize with the request by special prosecutor Archibald Cox that the Senate Watergate committee temporarily suspend its hearings.

Cox called for a postponement of the hearings on grounds they might make it difficult to gain court convictions of some of those excused in the Watergate case.

Richardson said he could understand Ervin's argument that the public must know all the facts about the Watergate case even if no one is sent to jail. But the attorney general said that view could contribute to further cynicism toward government.

"The disclosure of wrongdoing should be followed up by the prosecution, the indicting and the conviction of the wrongdoers," said Richardson.

"Unless the people see this happening, they will indict all of Washington. What is on trial here is confidence in the integrity of the government."

Asked who would represent Nixon before the Supreme Court should a White House special prosecutor confrontation arise, Richardson said "the President would have to have his own counsel. It would be uncommon, but I see no other way to do it."

Normally, the Justice Department provides legal advice to the White House, but Richardson has given complete independence to Cox to investigate the Watergate scandal and other illicit political activities.

The White House said Monday that it would not make available to the Watergate investigators logs listing people with whom Nixon has spoken in person or by telephone.

Richardson said this latest development probably will have to be resolved by the courts, although he expressed hope that it can be resolved by an agreement between Cox and the President's counsel.

Richardson said that when Nixon named him to be attorney general, "the President said he expected me to pursue evidence to wherever it might lead. I have given that responsibility to the special prosecutor."

Asked about the concept of a national security force, such as the White House unit that was established to pursue press leaks in government, Richardson said "there would have to be a very persuasive case made why the regular agencies of government were not sufficient."

Abraham Beame Apparently Wins N. Y. C. Primary

NEW YORK (AP) City Comptroller Abraham Beame appeared to have won the city's four-way Democratic mayoral primary Monday night, but seemed certain to face a runoff June 26.

A tight race developed for second place between Rep. Mario Biaggi, a former policeman already nominated by the Conservative party, and Rep. Herman Badillo, a liberal and the first Puerto Rican elected to Congress.

State Assemblyman Albert Blumenthal trailed in the Democratic contest but won a place on the ballot as Liberal party nominee.

With 2,154 of 4,569 district reporting — 47 per cent of the total — the vote was Beame 119,212 or 35 per cent; Badillo 86,402 or 25 per cent; Biaggi 80,827 or 24 per cent, and Blumenthal 52,658 or 16 per cent.

State Sen. John Marchi already has the Republican nomination.

The four were competing to replace John V. Lindsay as mayor of the nation's largest city when Lindsay steps down Jan. 1.

Beame was considered the front-runner as polls opened on a muggy day. Election officials described the turnout as light. About 2.4 million registered Democrats were eligible.

At 67 a veteran of city politics, Beame campaigned on his knowledge of city government and its finances. The big question was: could he get enough votes to avoid a runoff?

Beame told reporters as he voted that he thought he could. "I'm looking forward to a great victory today. I expect all others to come in far behind me," he said.

Badillo, a native of Puerto Rico also predicted he could get 40 per cent "if the turnout is heavy."

Biaggi, a much-decorated former police lieutenant, said he would win at least enough votes to stay in a run-off and Blumenthal, who was chief architect of the state's liberal abortion law, said he was confident about his prospects both in the Democratic primary and the Liberal one where he faced tough opposition from Stanley Shaw.

Biaggi already has the conservative party nomination.

Susan Zeigler To Travel Abroad With Students

A Jacksonville college student is among the more than 2,000 college students who will travel abroad this summer as members of The Experiment in International Living, one of the nation's most respected leaders in the field of international cross-cultural exchange.

Susan E. Zeigler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Zeigler, 1535 Mound Ave., will participate in the language training program at Vermont Academy in France. Miss Zeigler, who will be attending Illinois College next fall as a sophomore, will depart June 30.

Following a period of thorough and imaginative orientation and language training, an Experimenter travels to the country of his choice with eight to 10 other young students from various parts of the United States. The group is accompanied by a highly qualified group leader or advisor who is fluent in the host language and who has undergone extensive cross-cultural training under the guidance of The Experiment's national staff.

The Experimenter then resides for a period of one month as the "son" or "daughter" of a foreign host family. This "homestay" is a time during which the Experimenter shares the daily routine of his foreign parents, brothers and sisters.

Following the homestay, an Experimenter travels within the country, accompanied by members of his group and various members of the host families. Most Experiment summer programs are approximately two months in length.

Boyle's Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

While performing his most onerous morning chore, the average man shaves off 27½ feet of whiskers in his lifetime.

If you are chronically impatient, you pay a price. "He who sows hurry reaps indignation," wrote Robert Louis Stevenson.

When it comes to supporting governments, it isn't the initial expense it's the upkeep that costs. Of every dollar you now pay in federal income taxes, 17 cents goes simply to pay the interest on the national debt.

You are wrong if you are among the millions of Americans who think Sitting Bull was the Sioux leader who defeated Custer and his men in the Battle of the Little Bighorn in 1876. Sitting Bull actually was a medicine man who saw no frontline action. Most historians give Chief Crazy Horse major credit for the Indian victory.

The growing shortage of gasoline and oil may force a revival of one of America's most popular forms of transportation in the past — the trolley car.

While streetcars are still common in a number of cities, they remain in only six in the United States — San Francisco, New Orleans, Philadelphia, Boston, Pittsburgh and Newark, N.J. Probably no more than 500 trolley cars remain.

Quotable notables: "The first thing to learn in intercourse with others is noninterference with their own peculiar ways of being happy, provided those ways do not assume to interfere by violence with ours." — William James.

Folklore: You will have good luck the rest of the day if the first butterfly you see is a white one. You'll bring rain, thunder and lightning if you kill a beetle. If you steal a hive, the bees won't thrive.

Morris Outlines Board's Position On Teacher Salary

School Board Chief Negotiator Russell Morris outlined for members of the board of School District 117 Tuesday evening the proposals which he said had been extended to the Jacksonville Education Association.

Morris said he was informed by JEA that the proposal to stay on the same salary schedule was "no proposal at all" on the part of the board.

Morris said he would outline the district's position which he contended was agreed upon by the full board during executive session.

He said the district would be something like $600,000 to $700,000 in the red ink at the end of the current fiscal year (June 30) and that the board wished to avoid going into the red any further.

Morris said the full economic package as proposed by JEA, which included a pay hike in excess of 6 per cent would cost the district an additional $300,000 during the next school year.

He said the problem of re-instating programs has been the goal of the administration and board throughout the year and that he felt some possibility existed to do so for the next school year. He said the school currently budgets money for education meetings each year...

...about $5,000 for the current year. He said a JEA request for severance pay was not in the best interests of the district. He said it would be best to make all funds spent for salary to be included or apply toward pensions of the faculty.

Morris said the negotiations started off as a problem-solving team effort, but "we don't have enough money to solve the problems." Morris also said the district is presently at the point where it must return to living within the income provided.

The present salary schedule lists the starting salary of a teacher with a bachelor's degree and no experience at $7,900. Morris said that is "as good as, or better, than any in this area." Don Colclasure pointed out that salaries have jumped from $5,600 in 1967 to the present $7,900, or 72 per cent in six years.

Morris said borrowing an additional $300,000 was "no solution" to the problem.

He said the present salary schedule would cost an additional $50,000 for the pay increases which most faculty members would enjoy. He said there would be about 14 teachers who would not receive increases, "but the opportunity is there for the rest to move up by meeting increased educational levels."

Morris said the board and JEA negotiators would meet again Wednesday evening.

Crone Re-Hired Officially
Morris said he had received a number of calls from citizens wondering whether Dr. Clifford Crone had been re-hired for the 1973-74 school year as superintendent. Morris said the matter had never been recorded officially in the minutes of the board so he made a motion that the board re-hire Dr. Crone for next year at the 1972-73 salary of $26,500 plus $500 travel.

The motion passed on a 4 to 3 ballot. Those who cast negative votes were: Fairfield, McKinney and Heaton. Those who cast votes in favor were: Morris, Colclasure, Doyle and Franzen.

Those who voted in the negative made it clear they were in no way voting against Dr. Crone, but felt some token increase of salary should accompany the matter.

Later, members confirmed that the matter did come up in March. After a regular board session, the members retired to executive session but returned to public session (although there was no public present) for a vote on Dr. Crone's re-appointment. The vote at that time was a 3 to 3 tie and the board was without the seventh member.

There was no public mention of the tie vote. At the time, members felt Crone was automatically re-hired, since notice must be given by April 1 of the board's intention to dismiss a superintendent.

Morris said Tuesday evening, "the action taken was the only way I know to get the information into the official minutes."

Gym Floor Bids
The board authorized seeking of bids for a new gym floor for the high school bowl June 19 at noon. A recommendation will be ready for board action at the regular meeting the same night.

School personnel will take the old floor up. The cost of the gym floor will be financed by advance sale of basketball tickets to season holders.

Special Recognition
Resignations from eleven teachers were received and accepted by the board, three with special appreciation and recognition: Russell Hubbert, high school science teacher; Clarence Stark, high school science teacher; and Mrs. Lela Fairfield, elementary are supervisors who are completing 27, 22, and 17 years of service respectively in District 117.

Bids Accepted
The board accepted bids for several routine items for use in the next school year:

Fuel Oil, No. 5, 125,000 gallons, Apex Oil Co. of St. Louis, 1.369 per gallon, a fluctuating bid.

Anti-freeze, 150 gallons, permanent type, B. F. Goodrich, Jacksonville, .39 per gallon in drum lots and $1.03 in gallon cans.

Out-Of-State Truck Driver Electrocuted

An out-of-state truck driver was electrocuted shortly before 1 p.m. Tuesday at the intersection of South West and Richards Street.

Coroner Don Lowe identified the victim as Raymond Willis Whitlow, 49, of Denver, Colo.

The truck was eastbound on Richards, attempting a right turn onto South West Street when it pushed over a city power pole.

An Illinois Power primary line was broken in the process and apparently dropped onto the truck causing it to be charged with electricity.

The driver stepped out of the truck and was apparently electrocuted instantly.

City, county and state police assisted at the scene of the accident.

A small Scottie dog, apparently the companion of the driver, was removed from the truck to a local veterinarian's office.

Power crews from both the city and Illinois Power were busy at the scene making necessary repairs.

A DENVER TRUCK DRIVER was electrocuted Tuesday afternoon when he stepped out of his cab and came in contact with his truck, which had become electrified when an Illinois Power primary line dropped on it.

Liquor Control Panel Controversy Growing

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Johnson would not move the commission's Chicago office to Lawrence E. Johnson, whose nomination as chairman of the state Liquor Control Commission was withdrawn abruptly by the Walker administration, said Tuesday that Gov. Daniel Walker may have acted without knowing all the facts.

At a news conference, Johnson, who had spurred an investigation of an alleged illegal campaign contribution to Walker by Chicago businessman Anthony Angelos, said that he hoped to meet with the governor Thursday. Afterward, he said, he would publicly declare what he believes was the reason for his ouster.

"I have reason to believe that this may not have been the governor's decision, that it may have been based on incomplete information," Johnson said. "I will not lie for the governor and I will not lie about the governor."

Johnson, a former Champaign County state attorney and congressional candidate, was removed as chairman three days after he said in a television interview he was wrapping up details of the Angelos investigation. The withdrawal came while Walker was in State Line, Nev., at the National Governors Conference.

"As a prosecutor for several years, I can say I would rather prosecute the Angelos case than defend it," Johnson said at the news conference. A hearing before the commission is set for June 29.

Johnson also disclosed that the commission plans to hold a July 29 hearing on 20 campaign contributions allegedly made by liquor dealers to state Rep. Edward Bluthardt, R-Shiller Park.

It is a misdemeanor for anyone who holds a liquor license to make a political contribution in Illinois. It also is illegal for a candidate to receive a money gift from anyone holding such a license.

Bluthardt told newsmen that the contributions consisted of tickets to a fund-raising dinner and advertisements purchased in an "add book," of the kind that is published by many campaign committees for office seekers. He added that he had not known that there was anything illegal about the donations.

Angelos, who reportedly held interests in firms which had liquor licenses, was nominated by Walker as director of insurance but withdrew after the appearance of published reports that he made a $50,000 contribution to the governor's campaign.

Johnson said he was telephoned at noon Monday by Walker's counsel, William I. Goldberg, and asked to resign. He said he was called Monday night by the deputy to the governor, Victor Degrazia, but refused to disclose what was said. Degrazia was Walker's campaign manager.

Johnson also was asked if any member of the governor's staff had asked him to "ease up on" or halt the Angelos investigation. He refused to answer, saying all questions would be answered Thursday.

He dismissed charges by Andrew Leahy, Walker's liaison to commissions and agencies, that he was relieved because he "refused to implement measures and endorse budget revisions that would have saved taxpayers about $500,000 through economies."

In a statement, Leahy said

Johnson would not move the commission's Chicago office to Lawrence E. Johnson, whose nomination as chairman of the state Liquor Control Commission was withdrawn abruptly by the Walker administration, said Tuesday that Gov. Daniel Walker may have acted without knowing all the facts.

At a news conference, Johnson, who had spurred an investigation of an alleged illegal campaign contribution to Walker by Chicago businessman Anthony Angelos, said that he hoped to meet with the governor Thursday. Afterward, he said, he would publicly declare what he believes was the reason for his ouster.

"I have reason to believe that this may not have been the governor's decision, that it may have been based on incomplete information," Johnson said. "I will not lie for the governor and I will not lie about the governor."

Johnson, a former Champaign County state attorney and congressional candidate, was removed as chairman three days after he said in a television interview he was wrapping up details of the Angelos investigation. The withdrawal came while Walker was in State Line, Nev., at the National Governors Conference.

"As a prosecutor for several years, I can say I would rather prosecute the Angelos case than defend it," Johnson said at the news conference. A hearing before the commission is set for June 29.

Johnson also disclosed that the commission plans to hold a July 29 hearing on 20 campaign contributions allegedly made by liquor dealers to state Rep. Edward Bluthardt, R-Shiller Park.

It is a misdemeanor for anyone who holds a liquor license to make a political contribution in Illinois. It also is illegal for a candidate to receive a money gift from anyone holding such a license.

Bluthardt told newsmen that the contributions consisted of tickets to a fund-raising dinner and advertisements purchased in an "add book," of the kind that is published by many campaign committees for office seekers. He added that he had not known that there was anything illegal about the donations.

Angelos, who reportedly held interests in firms which had liquor licenses, was nominated by Walker as director of insurance but withdrew after the appearance of published reports that he made a $50,000 contribution to the governor's campaign.

Johnson said he was telephoned at noon Monday by Walker's counsel, William I. Goldberg, and asked to resign. He said he was called Monday night by the deputy to the governor, Victor Degrazia, but refused to disclose what was said. Degrazia was Walker's campaign manager.

Johnson also was asked if any member of the governor's staff had asked him to "ease up on" or halt the Angelos investigation. He refused to answer, saying all questions would be answered Thursday.

He dismissed charges by Andrew Leahy, Walker's liaison to commissions and agencies, that he was relieved because he "refused to implement measures and endorse budget revisions that would have saved taxpayers about $500,000 through economies."

In a statement, Leahy said

Methodists Initiating Counseling Program

Central Illinois United Methodists in annual session Tuesday Webb. The gift to establish a pastoral counseling and education program in the church's Illinois Area pastoral care and counseling program to begin Jan. 1, 1974, and financed partially by a $150,000 grant from the Fellheimer Trust in Macomb.

Southern Illinois Conference last week in Lebanon prepared the way for the joint conference venture by a majority approval of the same proposal.

Arthur H. Peyton, Macomb, chairman of the trust committee, and other committee members, were presented to the annual session by Bishop Lance Webb, presiding officer.

Peyton repeated for Central Illinois United Methodists the ceremonial gesture, enacted earlier in Lebanon, of presenting Bishop Webb a check for $50,000 for immediate use.

Adopted 2-1
The extensive program of counseling came under heavy debate for several hours but eventually was adopted by an estimated two-to-one majority.

The Fellheimer Trust of Wesley United Methodist church, Macomb, was established as a bequest to the local congregation in the will of J. Wallace Fellheimer, Macomb, who died Sept. 20, 1967.

Inventory value this year is $7 million, said Dr. William W.

Bennett, assistant to Bishop Webb. The gift to establish a pastoral counseling and education program in the church's Illinois Area is the first donation from the charitable trust, said Peyton.

The proposal to inaugurate the pastoral care and counseling program was offered to the conference by the Rev. Dr. Robert White, Galesburg, chairman of an area ad hoc committee.

$50,000 First Year
According to terms of the proposal, the Fellheimer Trust will make available to the episcopal area $50,000 the first year and reduce the amount by $10,000 in successive years until 1979 when the conferences will fund the program completely through apportionments to the local churches. As the annual gifts become less, the area every year will make up the difference to $50,000.

A special committee will begin to search for a qualified counselor, either lay or ministerial, who will function independently from episcopal supervision.

The five-year plan calls for a counseling service to clergymen and their families, seminars for improvement of counseling skills of local pastors, and the establishment of a school of professional growth and development of pastors' courses in counseling.
